Boy Cyclist Crushed to Death By Truck

FALLS IN FRONT OF VEHICLE AT CITY BUILDING

John Bell, 14, Junior High Student, Second Bicyclist to Die in Last 10 Days.

20TH RICHLAND FATALITY

Witnesses Tell of Accident, Driver Exonerated by Prosecutor.

A 14-year-old John Simpson high school student, crushed beneath the wheels of a loaded coal truck yesterday afternoon after he fell from his bicycle in front of the vehicle, became Richland county's 20th traffic victim of the year. At this time last year 19 persons had been killed.

John Glenn Bell, 227 Wood street, died almost instantly on West Second street, almost directly across the street from the city building, when hit by an Estes Coal and Ice company truck loaded with six tons of coal. The accident occurred at 5:20 p. m., police said.

Richland County's 1939 Traffic Toll

This date last year—19

He was the second youthful bicycle rider to be killed in Mansfield in the past two weeks. It was the third fatal bicycle accident in the county this year.

On Oct. 8, Charles Smeyak, jr., 14, died from injuries he received when his bicycle ran into the side of an automobile on Orange street. A month earlier a Shelby youth was killed when he rode his bicycle into the path of a train at a Shelby grade crossing.

Driver Tells of Mishap.

Frank Hardesty, 41, driver of the truck told police that he was proceeding west on West Second street at about six or eight miles an hour when the accident occurred. He said he had seen the boy riding his bicycle at the right of his truck and then missed him and felt the truck jolt over some object.

Police said he drove 67 feet up a slight grade before bringing his truck to a stop.

Witnesses said both the right front and right rear wheels passed over the boy's body.

County Prosecutor G. W. Marriott, who interviewed the driver and several witnesses described the boy's death as "accidental" and exonerated Hardesty.

Close-Up of a Submarine

This is a German U-boat (shortened English version for the German unterseeboot). That row of sawteeth on top of the bow is to cut steel underwater nets. The early success of submarines in the current war repeated strikingly their early success in the World war. In September, 1915, a U-boat got the British cruiser "Pathfinder"; then shortly later, the U-9 got, all at once, the British "Aboukir," "Cressy," and "Hogue." In May, 1917, German subs sank an average of 10 enemy and neutral ships a day, but England learned to convoy her ships with destroyers and the menace was overcome. What worries the British now is the U-boat's recent success against the big battleship Royal Oak.

Ex-Wife Ready To Rewed Truck Driver, Critically Hurt In Crash

ASHLAND—While Harvey Akers, 26, Akron truck driver, was fighting for his life at Samaritan hospital today, Edith Akers, his former wife who divorced him only Monday, was at his bedside, assuring him that if he "would only live", she would remarry him and they would start life anew.

A few hours after Akers truck crashed near Ashland Tuesday morning, she was at his bedside. He suffered internal injuries, a number of fractures and multiple lacerations. Tuesday night she gave her blood in a transfusion so that the man she had divorced the day before might have a better chance to live.

Akers, who was hurt when the truck he was driving hit a bridge on route 42, one and a half miles northeast of here, received a second blood transfusion late last night from his brother, M. E. Akers of Akron.

The divorced wife has been at Akers' bedside almost continuously since the accident. She said they were "just kids" when they married and both were hot-tempered, but added if her husband recovered, they would rewed. They have one small son.

Hospital attendants refused to comment on Akers' chances of recovery, saying only that his condition was "still critical".

Akers was conscious today and said that all he could remember of the accident, which scattered a $25,000 cargo of imported whisky, rum and medical supplies along the highway, was that something had gone wrong with the lights and he had reached down to adjust them when the big truck swerved and he lost control of it.

Schedule Debate On Amendments To Neutrality Law

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senate leaders agreed informally today to wind up the wide-open debate on the neutrality bill this week and begin consideration of amendments Monday.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the administration leader, and Senator Nye (R-ND), one of the leaders opposing the administration legislation, both reported this would be the procedure.

Meanwhile, seven opposition senators, meeting in the office of Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) discussed the possibility of offering united resistance to a proposed relaxation of shipping control provisions in the "cash and carry" section of the bill.

Heretofore the opposition has concerned itself almost solely with fighting repeal of the arms embargo.

Senator LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.) said the group would determine its course after studying the proposed shipping amendment.

Nordic Kings Broadcast Hopes to Restore Peace

Address Scandinavian Nations From Royal Parley In Sweden.

(By United Press)

STOCKHOLM—King Gustav V of Sweden today expressed the "ardent hope" that the Nordic states may contribute to the re-establishment of peace in Europe.

The kings of Sweden, Norway and Denmark and the president of Finland, Kyosti Kallio, who have conferred here for two days with their foreign ministers, all addressed the Scandinavian nations in a 25-minute broadcast from Gustav's palace.

In connection with his speech, King Gustav issued a statement pleading for general peace and the "elimination of serious contrasts which at this moment divide the belligerents."

Kallio said that Finland was determined to defend her independence and had received "constant proofs of the solidarity of other Nordic nations with Finland."

King Gustav, who spoke first, emphasized the importance of the common neutrality of the Nordic nations and the value of the solidarity of the Scandinavian countries.

King Christian, speaking for Denmark and Iceland, expressed hope for the future as result of the local cooperation of the Nordics. King Haakon of Norway, thanking Gustav for his initiative in calling the conference, said that Scandinavian cooperation and friendship should be a model for the world generally.

In his statement King Gustav said "We appreciate the extremely warm hearted greetings sent to our meetings by the chiefs of state in America."

Kallio's speech came at the close of a two-day conference with the kings of Sweden, Norway and Denmark and the foreign ministers of all four countries. The conference was called by Gustaf to work out a common plan to keep war out of the Nordic countries. Discussions apparently were monopolized by Russia's demands for concessions on Finnish islands.

Kallio said Finland wished to live peacefully but that the other Scandinavian countries

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The financial crisis caused by the war in Europe is passing, Secretary of the Treasury H. Morgenthau, jr., declared today.

Basing his analysis on enthusiastic reception of government refinancing just completed, Morgenthau revealed that he has relinquishd the services of three prominent financiers who have been aiding the treasury during the emergency as dollar-a-year men.

The secretary revealed that refunding of a $206,000,000 of commodity credit corporation obligations has been completed in "extremely" satisfactory fashion.

FIRES OPENING GUN FOR DEMS

Hunter Cites Record for Past 21 Months as Vote Drive Begins in Earnest.

Mansfield's 1939 municipal election campaign was under way in earnest today after weeks of preliminary maneuvering.

The "kick-off" speaker was Mayor Claude M. Hunter who addressed a meeting of Democrats last night in the Democratic headquarters in the Walpark building.

Republican speakers headed by William J. Locke, mayoralty candidate, will not begin their verbal barrage until next week although they have been active in contacting voters personally for a month.

"Honesty, efficiency, economy and progress" were the keynotes of Hunter's speech as he launched his drive for re-election on his record in office for the past 21 months.

"With all modesty, cannot we go proudly before the citizens of Mansfield and without hesitation, lay the administration's record confidently before them for appraisal?" Hunter asked his audience.

Stressing the need for experience and "frugal management" in municipal affairs, he said there was only one question to be settled in the current campaign.

3 Powers Agree To Join Forces For Mutual Aid

Britain, France Announce Conclusion Of Agreement With World War Foe; Expect Pledges To Provide For Reciprocal Security Action.

BULLETIN

ANKARA, Turkey—(AP)—Turkey, key power of eastern Mediterranean, signed a mutual assistance pact with Britain and France here at 6:15 p. m. (11:15 a. m. EST) today.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Great Britain and France announced agreement today with Turkey, their World war foe and guardian of the vital Dardanelles, in a formal pact of mutual assistance in the eastern Mediterranean area.

The announcements followed close on the suspension of negotiations between Turkey and Soviet Russia—talks apparently designed to draw Turkey closer to her big eastern neighbor.

The text of the treaty is to be issued as a white paper immediately after the signature, it was announced.

The pact, informed sources believed, would be in the form of a single treaty binding the three countries along the same lines as pledges exchanged earlier this year.

Britain and France each then agreed with Turkey to "conclude a definitive long-term agreement of reciprocal character in the interests of their national security."

"Pending completion of a definitive agreement," Prime Minister Chamberlain announced May 12, "His Majesty's government and the Turkish government declare that in the event of an act of aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean area, they will be prepared to co-operate effectively and to lend each other all aid and assistance in their power.

"This declaration, like the proposed agreement, is not directed against any country, but is designed to assure Britain and Turkey of mutual aid and assistance should necessity arise."

Subsequently, on June 23, Turkey and France signed a similar declaration.

Action on the treaty, following the suspension of conversations in Moscow between Turkey and Soviet Russia, coincided with the presence in Ankara of two Allied generals, French General Maxime Weygand and British Lieut.-Gen. Archibald P. Wavell.

Informed British said the generals' visits were a natural sequel to previous discussions among the three countries on military matters in the eastern Mediterranean region where Turkey occupies a strategic position.

'Good Insurance.'

British circles indicated the mutual assistance treaty would be regarded by Britain as good "insurance" against extension of German influence in southeastern Europe.

Turkey's signature, it was said, would not preclude her from resuming negotiations with Russia at some future time, possibly on a basis different from that upon which the recent Turkish-Russian talks were snagged.

British diplomatic observers and virtually the entire press contended that German diplomacy was the main loser in the suspension of talks between Turkey and Russia.

In some quarters it was regarded as a Nazi failure to shake Turkey, "watchdog of the Dardanelles," from the British and French front and as an

AT THE FRONT: All Losses Regained, Nazis Marking Time

(By United Press)

BERLIN—The Nazi high command announced today that French troops on the western front had been driven back to French soil on the Saar sector but emphasized that German forces avoided crossing the frontier.

"Thus the first phase of operations resulting from French initiative is regarded as finished," the high command declared in a significant statement that may reflect Adolf Hitler's strategy.

The German high command also announced that total German casualties from the start of the war until Oct. 7 were only 666 on the western front, including 196 killed, but that 60 Allied planes had been shot down since hostilities started.

The communique — claiming that virtually all of the French gains since the start of the war had been wiped out and that pressure had been lessened on the great Saarbruecken industrial area—hinted that for the moment at least Hitler was avoiding any powerful thrust at France.

Although the communique shed no direct light on Hitler's plans toward France, it was pointed out that his bitterness has been directed principally at Great Britain and that the Nazi warfare has been pressed most severely against the British. Hitler's recent speeches have emphasized the German de-

Oh, Min! The Gumps on Sunday

News-Journal Daily Strip Also To Run In Color In New Edition

HERE'S some more good news. "The Gumps," top-ranking comic strip, will be in the eight-page colored comic section of the Sunday News-Journal, appearing for the first time Oct. 29.

News-Journal readers have followed the doings of the Gumps for years in the daily comic page and now they'll be able to keep up with this dizzy family seven days a week.

Talk about harassed households—the Gumps' is the world's worst. Andy, the chinless wonder who heads the family, gets into more scrapes than 16-year-old Chester, his son. Andy's sense of his own importance is so swollen he thinks everything he does is a great feat.

It's all pretty hard on his wife, Min, who, luckily, has enough common sense for Andy and herself too. She has a soft spot in her heart for her flighty spouse and the only thing Andy doesn't like about her is her relatives. That's the happy couple pictured in the above sketch at the left.

Uncle Bim, wealthy uncle and financier (he has financed the Gumps for years) is a big help to the Gumps but he has his troubles with his belligerent mother-in-law, Mama Fleecer. She's in the sketch above at right.

Watch for "The Gumps" in the Sunday News-Journal on Oct. 29.

SUBS BANNED: U. S. Prohibits Undersea Craft In 3-Mile Limit

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Submarines of belligerent nations have been prohibited from entering American ports or territorial waters except when unforeseen circumstances, such as storms, force them to take shelter.

President Roosevelt proclaimed the ban last night by putting into effect a provision of the neutrality law. Armed merchant vessels of warring nations still may enter American ports and waters.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the ban would serve to maintain peace and promote American security. Submarines forced to enter American waters, he said, should do so with their conning towers and superstructures above water and with their flags flying.

Experts explained that the proclamation would permit the entrance of belligerent submarines during violent storms, when their machinery was damaged, or when they suffered loss of fuel or provisions. In such cases, the vessel could not remain in an American port for more than 24 hours.

The commander of a submarine violating the proclamation could be tried under the neutrality law and if convicted could be sentenced to five years in prison and a fine of $10,000. The proclamation did not specify what would be done with an offending submarine, but experts said that it could be interned.

American territorial waters are defined as those within three miles of shore. Hence, any belligerent submarine forced to take shelter must rise to the surface when it reaches the three-mile limit.

NEW BROMFIELD BOOK ON FICTION LIST AT LIBRARY

Author's 'It Takes All Kinds' Collection of Novels and Short Stories.

A Bromfield collection of stories, published in America for the first time, heads the list of new fiction titles at the Public library this week, while an autobiography of A. A. Milne is among the non-fiction volumes.

IT TAKES ALL KINDS by Louis Bromfield is a week-end library in one volume. The book contains three novels, two rather short novelettes and a handful of short stories, none of which has previously appeared in book form.

The collection includes all the various settings which Bromfield has mastered, from the Orient and the Riviera to a vanished and outmoded New York. The novel, BITTER LOTUS, has a group of characters which have been transplanted from THE RAINS CAME, but the plot and outcome are different.

ARARAT by Elgin Groseclose is a novel of racial clashes, of war and revolution, from the Turkish massacres of 1895 to the close of the Russian revolution. It centers in the land between the Black and the Caspian seas, picturing the Armenian people and their desperate defense of their culture and ideals.

THE GLADIATORS by Arthur Koestler is a story of the Slave war or Gladiators' war, 73-71 B.C., during which Crixus, a Gaul, and Spartacus, an intelligent young Thracian, try to establish a brotherhood of towns, a Sun state. The ideal is frustrated by greed and dissension, so that Spartacus is forced to use terroristic methods. Other new fiction this week includes:

SANDY OF SKYLINE, Moore.
WHO KILLED AUNT MAGGIE? Field.
ROPE NECKTIES, Wilstach.
SHOOTIN' SHERIFF, Nye.

Milne's Autobiography.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY by A. A. Milne is a pleasantly frank record of the efforts of an English schoolmaster's son who wanted to write for a living. Because he had had a series of humorous sketches printed in Punch while he was at Cambridge, Milne was sure he could get on the staff of Punch. His youthful enthusiasm and determination enabled him to succeed in his chosen profession, and he insists that his lovable poems and stories for children are "the work of a light verse writer taking his job seriously, even though he is taking it into the nursery." The description of Milne's childhood is the epitome of happy living.

BODY MENDERS written under the pseudonym, James Harpole, contains 20 stories from an English surgeon's records. They are chosen to explain some of the surgical ordeals which are so frightening to the uninitiated, but which science has perfected so as to involve a minimum of danger.

AMERICA GOES TO WAR by Charles Callan Tansill is an interpretation of the neutrality policy of the American Government during the years 1914-1917. Dr. Tansill gives a survey which is impartial and revealing, based on data inaccessible to previous historians. In addition to these three, the non-fiction list also includes:

CRIME AND THE MAN, Hooton.
TEACHING IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, Cole.
ART-SONG IN AMERICA, Upton.
COLLECTING ANTIQUES FOR THE HOME, Saylor.
HISTORY OF SPANISH ARCHITECTURE, Bevan.
HOW TO BE YOUR OWN DECORATOR, Koues.
AUTOMOTIVE BODY AND FENDER REPAIRS, Packer
IMPERIAL GERMANY AND THE INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION, Veblen.
COTSWOLD COUNTRY, Massingham.
CHRIST'S IMAGE, Mauriac.
Reference Book: RACIAL PROVERBS, Champion.

INDIANS' ENTITY SEEN ON WANE

Interpreter Says Redmen Are Rapidly Being Absorbed Through Intermarriage.

ORLANDO, Fla.—(UP)—F. B (Flying Cloud) Zahn, graduate of the Carlisle Indian School and nationally known interpeter, believes that the full-blooded Indian will be extinct within 5 years

Zahn said that Indians rapidly are being absorbed by the white race through intermarriage.

"They have not long to live as a racial entity," he predicted. "The time will shortly come when the Indians will be nothing but a memory"

Zahn says that actually the Indian is not a "red man" but a "copper man" whose origin had been established as Mongolian.

"Dress an Indian like a Chinese or Japanese and you would swear he is an Oriental," he said "Dress a Chinese in Indian garments and you will take him for an Indian'

He believes that the American Indian came to this hemisphere thousands of years ago from Asia when Alaska and the continent of Asia were linked

Although Indians are portrayed in history and fiction as wild, bloodthirsty savages. Zahn says nothing could be farther from the truth.

"In the first place, the Indian was a pagan and not a savage," he said. "In the second place, the Indian was a piker in war when compared with the white man, the cruelest of all peoples"

Zahn said there is no reason left for resentment, however, for "we did a lot of scalping"

He concluded that the Indians were gullible to the white man's tricks

Husking Star

A new world's corn husking record is claimed for Eugene Crouse, 23-year-old Conrad, Ia, farmhand, as he husks 3,288 pounds or 46 97 bushels in 80 minutes This beats the previous world's record—set by Elmer Carlson of Audubon, Ia, when he won the national title at Newton, Ind, last year—by five bushels Crouse hopes to enter the national contest this year

NEW ORDINANCE CURBS PERILS

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(UP)—A new ordinance providing protection for window washers places responsibility not only on building owners but on the cleaners themselves

It provides that buildings whose windows are washed shall be equipped with anchors built into the wall to the city inspector's specifications and that window washers shall use safety belts which fit into these anchors.

SAVING RUGS

As soon as rugs show signs of wear, trim off the worn or frayed places and rebind with carpet binding. The edges of small or bedroom rugs often can be "buttonholed" with heavy woolen yarn in a matching or contrasting color.

It will be "no soap" if you fail to bring home some Silver Crest Bread.

Man Lost for Decade Only 25 Miles Away.

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — For 10 years the family of John A. Distler searched for him—and yet he was only 25 miles away.

His family failed to hear from him since Distler left home in 1929 to find a job. Recently an aunt died, leaving him $21,000, and the long-lost man's whereabouts was discovered when his wife came to Cincinnati to claim the money. She revealed that Distler, now a paralytic, had been living in Lawrenceburg, Ind., during the 10 years the family tried to find him.

British Blame Their Marriage

A British government white paper hinted that the marriage of Marshal Werner von Blomberg, former minister of war, to his stenographer Jan. 12, 1938, started a chain of events which precipitated the present war. Von Blomberg and his bride are seen here in Colombo, Ceylon, on their honeymoon.

53 YEARS BEHIND COUNTER, HE'S OLDEST OF MANSFIELD GROCERS

The observance of annual National Grocers week is comparatively new, but no one in Mansfield is more interested in it that A. D. Rinehart, 67, who probably is the city's oldest grocer in point of service since John Angle retired early last summer.

Because he has seen the business of selling food in general stores grow into one of the nation's leading retail industries, highly specialized and "streamlined"—even to a "national week" observance.

Rinehart has been behind the counter of a grocery store for 53 years, and 51 of these have been at the Park grocery, North Diamond street. He is one of seven men at the Park whose years of service there aggregate 208 years.

One of the reminders of the early days at the Park grocery is the counters which are of solid walnut.

Rinehart belongs to that school of veteran grocerymen who hark back to the days when clerks went to work at 5:30 a. m. in the summer time and 6:30 a. m. in the winter, and worked until 10 p. m. on week days and midnight Saturday nights. The average salary in those years was about $3.50 a week, he says.

There was no refrigeration then. The butter and lard were kept in the dark, cool cellar. Practically everything came in bulk—coffee, tea, soft white sugar (there was no granulated sugar), beans rice and other staples. Nor were there sacks to weigh it out in; everything was wrapped in flat sheets of paper, and it was quite a little trick to expertly wrap up five pounds of soft sugar in paper.

There was little canned goods. Even Orleans baking molasses and sorphum molasses were kept in big barrels, as was vinegar. And of course every grocery store carried coal oil.

What little canned goods was purchased wholesale came packed in straw in big barrels. The only fresh fruit was apples and occasionally there were bananas and oranges shipped in from California.

All of the modern conveniences have made for speed in service. Most articles are in packages with prices and labels where they can be read at a glance. Rinehart claims that one clerk today can wait on three times as much trade in considerably less time.

Every year sees grocery service speeded up and some modern development added. Frozen foods are one of the newest features that would have left the grocery clerks of a half century ago aghast.

Not the least remarkable phase of Rinehart's grocery career is that he never took a day off in the first 25 years and that even in these later years he is active in the business which he manages.

Bucks to Throw 'Powerful Fullbacking' Against Gophers

By JIM EMERSON

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Forget that old bromide about carrying coals to somewhere-in-England (war censored).

How about Ohio State transporting the best corps of fullbacks in the Big Ten to Minnesota?

* * * * *

Ask any gridiron bug to name the No. 1 Minnesota gridiron tradition and it's 100 to 2 he answers: "Powerful fullbacking."

* * * * *

The giants of the north, now streamlined into the Golden Gophers by Bernie Bierman, have a tradition of line-smashing, irresistible fullbacks—Herb Joesting, Bronko Nagurski, Jack Manders, Sheldon Beise, Stan Kosta, Larry Buhler.

The present occupants of that key post are no slouches. Marty Christiansen, a curly-haired 190-pound senior, is the starting crasher and 195-pound a sophomore, Bob Sweiger, sees almost as much service as the first substitute.

Nevertheless, fullback is one spot where Ohio fans yield no ground and claim an edge for the Buckeyes in their title-bearing joust at Minneapolis on Saturday.

The Ohio fullbacking is spearheaded by Jimmy Langhurst and buttressed by Johnny Rabb, regular two years ago, and John Hallabrin, a sophomore just about good enough right now for a regular position on any man's eleven.

As a sophomore last fall, Langhurst rated as the most valuable player on the Ohio squad. He topped the Big Ten in scoring with 36 points, averaged almost five yards a try at ball carrying and looked every inch a blocker and tackler.

Comes his second season and Gentleman Jim from Willard, O., is running, blocking and tackling with more zest and success than ever. He will have a definite edge over his Gopher rivals in speed and shifty open field ball-toting around the ends and across the secondary zone after crashing through the line.

Backing up Langhurst are the veteran Rabb and sophomore Hallabrin. Jarring Johnny from Akron has displayed a hard-working spirit this fall despite his relegation from the spotlight he held in 1936 and 1937 as No. 1 fullback. Hallabrin, a rugged youth from Mansfield, likes the going rough and vies with Langhurst as a line-charger.

So fullbacking is the least of Francis Schmidt's worries as he packs 38 Bucks on the train this afternoon for the 850-mile jaunt to Minneapolis for the Bucks' first encounter with the Gophers since 1931. A Minnesota eleven coached by Fritz Crisler that year defeated Ohio State, 19 to 7.

Duquesne Places Hopes on Nerby's Magic Toe.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Underdog Duquesne bases its hope of checking Pitt's Panthers Saturday on a stalwart, heavy line and the magic kicking toes of Carl Nerby, giant tackle who stood behind his goal line and got off a 90-yard boot in last year's encounter between the city rivals. Reports from Pitt's camp are that Coach Charley Bowser's strategy board is somewhat worried

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

ASK the "Man About Town" what he thinks about the Tygers now, and you'll find that the Massillon defeat has been forgotten.

Instead of complaining about the caliber of football displayed by the Tygers and the size of the score, the citizens are describing in flowery adjectives the brilliance of the team's performance against Sandusky.

The unexpected victory over Sandusky was a much needed tonic for the waning football interest, and, if the Tygers can hurdle Canton-McKinley, the season will go down in the records as a fairly successful, providing, of course, that Akron Kenmore, Ashland and Shelby are handled as expected.

Two defeats have been absorbed, but it is impossible to convince Coaches Snyder, Hoffman and Mehock that the Tygers deserved a whipping in the New Philadelphia game.

There was little difference in the physical strength and performances of the Tygers and Quakers, but New Philly got the breaks and Mansfield didn't. With a fair share of what they describe as "breaks," the Tygers might have pulled out on top.

The Tygers and their coaches do not have any alibis for the Massillon session. They were decisively beaten by a team that compares in Ohio football with the Yankees in the American league.

But the Tygers probably could have held Massillon to a more respectable score had Snyder not made wholesale substitutions after a Tiger triumph was definitely recognized.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

Ohio State students—3,000 strong—wished Bucks bon voyage on Ann Arbor jaunt to "Beat Michigan"... ..Alan Griffin handled junior high football team at Simpson....Duke Weber's 606 led Shelley's Chocolates to 2896 count in City league. Bob Shawkey was named to replace the late Miller Huggins, former Mansfield baseball star, as manager of the Yankees .. Reds purchased Harry Heilman and Bob Meusel in attempt to strengthen outfield....

Snyder Does Well In First Year.

FOR a man who knew hardly thing about the personnel of the Mansfield squad until he saw the Tygers in action against Akron West, Snyder has done right well, we believe.

While Snyder's system does not vary greatly from the type of football stressed by J. Russell Murphy, the new coach was not expected to jump into his new job and turn out a "wonder" team.

It will take Snyder more than a year to install the variations that he is attempting to apply to the old system.

Next year's edition should be more of a Snyder team, and the 1941 eleven will be definitely a team that he can call his own.

Prospects for next fall are not encouraging. Only Bob Lantz, Howard Hershey and Martin Henke of the lineup which started the Sandusky game are not seniors. A fine sophomore crop is being cultivated at the high school, but this group may not be ready to present the kind of football that will be demanded next year.

* * *

The sophomores should come into their own the following year, and, by the time 1942 comes around, the newly-installed junior high school system should start to pay dividends.

* * *

TWO days before the Sandusky game, a couple of the Tygers received anonymous letters from Sandusky. They said: "Take the Massillon score and add 20 points and that will be the margin by which Sandusky will take Mansfield Saturday." They were slightly in error.

This one even had the Greeks stymied. The real name of Ted Anastos, Northwestern quarterback, is (take a deep breath) Themistocles Nickolas Anastasopoulos.

Ex-Mansfielder Clair Bee, Long Island university coach, has been named editor in chief of a new sports annual devoted to basketball. It will come off the press in the near future.

A new fishing device! When a fish is hooked on the line, it shoots a gun, flashes a light, sets off an electric bell and waves a red flag. But a lot of fellows will probably complain because it doesn't haul the fish in.

Tom Meany has a good crack, says: "Hiring detectives to trail the Cleveland players is a waste of money. Browns, at no extra cost, trail everybody in the American league."

Bishop Pitcher

One of the chief reasons for Ohio Wesleyan's comeback in football this fall is Les Michael, 175-pound fullback and brilliant passer. Michael has thrown five touchdown passes in four games and has completed 30 out of 48 tosses for a total gain of 355 yards. His accurate throws resulted in both Bishop touchdowns as they defeated Ohio U., 12 to 7. Michael lives in Mechanicsburg.

Stauffer Sets Bowling Pace

Rolls 625 Total in Westie League at Meder Alleys.

Pounding the uprights for a 625 count, Harold Stauffer of the Iron Finishing was high in the scoring columns in the Westinghouse league at the Meder alleys last night.

Walter Fensch of the Merchandising Service club hit the uprights for a 605 total, and Fritz Vogel of Shipping No. 1 came through with 604. Jennings Heiser of Order Service compiled a 601 count.

Team scoring honors were annexed by the Refrigeration Machines, who tipped 2581 sticks.

The Art Rattan league was led by Mason of the Cutters, who led the team to a high 2407 count with a 557 series.

REVENUE FROM RACING STRIKES LOWEST LEVEL

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—State revenue from horse racing in 1939 hit the lowest level in seven years of legal pari-mutuel betting in Ohio, the state racing commission disclosed today. State taxes from five running meets during the past season aggregated $92,036 compared with $123,135 from seven meets in 1938.

Favors County Teams

Dope Gives Madison, Shelby, Bellville and Butler Edge in This Week's Games.

AFTER this week's games involving Richland county high school elevens—

Madison should be boasting its third triumph in six games. Bellville's Bluejays should remain with the state leaders with their six victories, Shelby should be tied for second place in the N. C. O. conference and Butler should be celebrating its first triumph.

* * *

Things can happen to spoil this picture, but the county clubs should do right well for themselves this week.

* * *

Norwalk St. Paul's is hardly a "breather" for Madison, but the Rams have shown improvement, and their followers are expected to see Coach Al Fendrick's men chalk up a victory on the home field.

Little is known about Sunbury, but it is not believed to be in the same class with Coach Boyd Hodge's Bluejays, who are riding the crest of a five-game winning streak. The game is billed at Sunbury.

Encouraged by their 24 to 0 triumph over Galion, Mt. Vernon's Jackets may offer the Whippets of Shelby an interesting tussle. Mt. Vernon may even take the Whippets, but Shelby did not do so badly in its last game with Bucyrus, which it won by a one-sided margin. Mt. Vernon is the host.

Butler is overdue, and Friday may be the day that Coach Bob Burgett's Bulldogs come into their own. Loudonville has fared poorly, but the game should develop into a pretty good ball game. It it scheduled at Loudonville.

* * *

Crestline, also boasting five straight triumphs, should not find it difficult to mark up No. 6 at Willard Friday night. Phil Ganni and Bob Frye are expected to carry too many guns for the Railroaders.

* * *

In the N. C. O. conference, Ashland is expected to take Galion and Marion looms too strong for Bucyrus. New London and Fredericktown are good bets against Vermilion and Utica, respectively.

SYRACUSE, PITTSBURGH ICEMEN TRAIN AT ARENA

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Members of three International-American hockey teams today had their first chance to test the ice of the arena, home rink of the Cleveland Barons. The teams, all of which will train in Cleveland, are the Barons, Syracuse and Pittsburgh.

Purchase of Larry Molyneaux from the New York Rangers was announced last night by Baron President Al Sutphin. Molyneaux, formerly with the Philadelphia Ramblers, played all of last season with the Rangers.

SETS NEW RECORD

ALBANY—(INS)—The fleet feet of champion pacer Billy Direct gave it a record of 1:59¾ for the mile over a half mile track today. In establishing the mark which bettered its previous record of two minutes flat, the horse was driven by William Fleming.

AL NETTLOW WINS

PHILADELPHIA—Al Nettlow, 144, Detroit, outpointed Leonard Del Genio, 145, New York, (10).

Mansfielders Get Big Bass

Thirty-three channel bass, ranging from 15 to 29 pounds, were caught by the quartet of anglers, which included three Mansfielders, shown above on a recent trip to Georgetown, S. C. The four are, left to right, G. Chalmers McDirmid of Charleston, S. C., C. H. Bollman, J. A. McDirmid and Carl Hellman of Mansfield. Hellman, using a steel bait casting rod with which he caught muskies in Canada, landed eight bass each weighing over 25 pounds. J. A. McDirmid landed an eight-foot shark with a 20-pound test linen line at Edisto beach after a fight which lasted nearly two hours.

Meet Sylvania Here Saturday

Sophomores' Game Shifted From Friday Afternoon; Varsity to Play at Kenyon This Week.

SPORTING two victories in as many days, the Mansfield high school sophomores were given a rest today as their chores this week have not been completed.

Victorious over the Marion Reserves, 12 to 0, Tuesday and the Shelby Reserves, 31 to 7, yesterday, the sophomores will engage the Sylvania varsity in a regular game at Stadium field at 2 p. m. Saturday.

The game was originally set for Friday afternoon, but as the Tyger varsity is not scheduled this week, Mansfield high athletic officials decided to shift the game to Saturday. An admission of 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children will be charged, Athletic Director Harry Mehock said today.

Announcement was also made by Coach Paul Snyder today that the Tyger varsity will play a practice game against the Kenyon college freshmen at Kenyon Friday afternoon. The game is billed at 3 p. m.

* * *

The Tygers will be the guests of Kenyon college at dinner Friday evening and will attend the Mt. Vernon-Shelby game in Mt. Vernon later in the night, Snyder said.

* * *

The Sophomores looked impressive as they turned back the Shelby seconds. After battling through the opening frame in which they threatened several times, Krupp put the Mansfielders in the lead by blocking a Shelby punt and then racing 40 yards for a score.

Brandt gave the Sophomores a 12 to nothing lead by smashing over from the eight. The touchdown climaxed a 40-yard march. The Mansfield combine continued to click after the intermission and Templeton added touchdown No. 3 by dashing off tackle from the eight. Jones contributed the second marker of the period by galloping 50 yards on a reverse.

* * *

And then Doolittle went 30 yards off tackle for the final touchdown. Mentor Mehock sent in a complete new team and Shelby unleashed an aerial attack that enabled it to break into the scoring column.

* * *

Keiser heaved a 30-yard pass to Daugherty in the end zone near the end of the game for the score. Brandt added one extra point from placement in five attempts.

Charges Line Let Bill Down

Sports Writer Blasts 'Cats for Ohio Showing.

EVANSTON, Ill.—(U.P.)—A slim, be-spectacled non-footballer, Mark Anson, split the Northwestern campus today with charges that Northwestern's linemen refused to block for highly-touted Bill Decorrevont and his backfield teammates in the Ohio State game last Saturday.

Writing in the student newspaper, the Daily Northwestern, Anson said the Wildcats had to "play against 18 men most of the day because the line believed that they had the nation's best backs and decided to sit down and let them work.

* * *

"Don't blame Decorrevont for the poor showing he made," he said. "No man could run when he was tackled as soon as he took the pass from center. . . . He and the rest of the backfield played against 18 men most of the day."

* * *

Coach Lynn Waldorf, who has been nursing Decorrevont and the Northwestern team through a natural letdown in morale—caused by two straight defeats after an almost hysterical ballyhoo during the summer, denied there was any intentional lack of team play against Ohio State.

"It's the silliest thing I ever heard of," he said. "The team has come along slowly and the blocking wasn't the best in either of our two games. But it wasn't intentional. So far we haven't been able to do much blocking for anybody."

The ratings in this table do not necessarily denote the relative strength of any one team to all other teams in the table. It does denote the relative rating and comparison to that team's opponent.

KEY TO BELOW RATING TABLE

Team listed in CAPITALS is the probable winner. A 3.00 difference in ratings is usually one touchdown difference in computing. letters following the opponent's rating denote—T, a possible tie game. R, possible reverse of choice; TR, a very close game, may tie, either team may win. RR, our choice is reverse of rating. Note: When we RR we go against our own ratings and very often that is contrary to consensus.

Joe Louis To Retire In 1940?

Champion Believed Ready to Quit Ring to Manage Detroit Riding Academy.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—When Joe Louis has made the final defense of his heavyweight title (probably next summer) and retired as the only undefeated colored champion in ring history, the brown bomber will settle down as proprietor of his own swank riding club and eating establishment near Detroit.

It's all mapped out for Joe by his co-managers, Julian Black and John Roxborough, just as they have arranged every other item of his existence since he came into the orbit of these two remarkably determined men.

* * *

For the last six months, our informant says, Roxborough and Black have been giving more thought to the champion's future than to making his matches and supervising his training. They are certain he can retire undefeated next year, but they are intensely interested in seeing that Joe remains a credit to the colored race after he has hung up the red mittens.

* * *

"If Joe thinks he's going to retire to a life of leisure and just plain pleasuring himself he's badly mistaken," says our insider. "He'll work and behave himself and not get fat if Julian and John have to break his neck for him."

The riding academy and eatery for members of Detroit's colored upper-crust is the idea they finally have decided upon, he says. Joe already owns several blooded horses and, furthermore, knows how to ride 'em. He will be the host, perhaps taking an occasional turn around the paths with favored guests

Supplies Seek Lorain Eleven

Rizzo Expects to Sign Lake City Pro Club for Game at Blue Goose Field Sunday.

MANSFIELD'S lone semi-pro football representatives, the undefeated Automotive Supplies, sporting an impressive five-game winning streak, are scheduled to resume their activities at Blue Goose field Sunday following their successful invasion in enemy territory last week.

Fresh from a well-earned 12 to 0 victory over the touted Cleveland Euclid Spartans, the Supplies are expected to face the Lorain Pros, although Business Manager Fred Rizzo has been unable to secure Lorain's acceptance of the contract for the contest.

Coach Earl McCullen's smooth-working aggregation has been improving each week, and its triumph over the Euclid Spartans, one of the state's semi-pro grid powers, established it as a contender for state honors.

* * *

One of the big hurdles still confronting the Supplies' march towards an undefeated season is the dangerous Akron Awnings, and should the Mansfield team overcome that obstacle, chances of marking up a fine record are promising.

* * *

Led by Al Schwaner, the McMullen-coached combine has waded through five teams in spectacular fashion. The Spartans are the only gridders to extend the unbeaten Mansfield team. Cleveland, incidentally, outweighed the Mansfield players 12 pounds per man.

No reports of the Lorain team are available, but if the invaders are anything like previous Lorain clubs, the Supplies can look for a busy afternoon.

BAER, GALENTO SIGN

CHICAGO—(INS)—Max Baer and Tony Galento, both members in good standing of the "I was knocked out by Joe Louis club," have been signed to fight ten rounds in Chicago stadium early next year, it was reported today. The fight probably would be held Jan. 26, or Feb. 2.

80,000 to See Irish, Middies

Game to Be Homecoming for 12 Members of Teams.

CLEVELAND — (AP)—When Notre Dame and Navy clash before about 80,000 fans Saturday at Cleveland, the big grid classic will be more or less a homecoming for 12 members of the rival squads, for seven Irish and five Middies are from the Buckeye state.

On the Notre Dame squad are Johnny Kelleher, the Lorain boy whose placekick beat Purdue 3 to 0, and whose point after touchdown won over Southern Methodist by 20 to 19. Along with him on the Irish team are Joe Thesing, the No. 1 fullback from Cincinnati; Joe Prokop, the former Cleveland Cathedral Latin star who now is a sophomore halfback; Chuck Riffle, the first string guard from Warren; Jim Brutz, left tackle also from Warren; Bob Leonard of Cincinnati, fullback, and Jack Finneran of Columbus, center.

Four of Navy's five Ohioans come from the northern portion of the state. The quintet consists of three from Akron, Victor A. Blandin, halfback who prepped at St. Vincent's; John T. Hill, 185-pound guard who attended Buchtel high; Richard W. Shafer, first string halfback from Oberlin, and David C. Wolfe of Portsmouth, a senior guard. Blandin is a junior, while Schmitz and Hill are sophomores.

The two Titans have played 12 games, with Notre Dame winning nine and the Middies three. Both are undefeated this year, although Navy has a scoreless tie with Dartmouth on its record.

ALL-WINTER RADIATOR PROTECTION FOR ONLY $1.50?

HERE'S THE WAY many car owners do it every year! They put in a couple of quarts of Du Pont "Zerone" early in the season for protection against rusting and sudden cold snaps.

When it gets really cold, they add enough "Zerone" for lower temperatures. A total of six quarts, put in as needed, can protect a car with an average size cooling system (15 quarts) for the entire winter. And six quarts of "Zerone" cost only $1.50!

You may need a little more or less, depending on the condition and capacity of your car radiator and the severity of winter in your neighborhood. But the efficiency of "Zerone" will save you real money.

"Zerone" prevents rust and corrosion, gives better dissipation of engine heat, avoids power losses. And remember, it's only $1.00 a gallon, 25¢ a quart.

PAM—"It's Your Duty!" By A. W. Brewerton

NEVER BEFORE HAD PAM QUARRELED WITH DAVID!
OH, HOW COULD I — HOW COULD I — TALK LIKE THAT TO DAVID? — HOW — HOW DESPICABLE OF ME! — I KNOW HE HATED LEAVING AS MUCH AS I DID SEEING HIM GO! — OH, IF I COULD ONLY CALL HIM BACK!
10-19
PERHAPS IT WAS THE TERRIFIC STRAIN OF THE PAST FEW DAYS, WHICH LEFT PAM WITH SUCH JUMPY NERVES AS TO CAUSE THIS OUTBURST, SO UNLIKE HER!
AND THEN THE TELEPHONE RANG AGAIN! —
OH, DAVID! I'M SO GLAD IT'S YOU! I'M SO ASHAMED! CAN YOU EVER FORGIVE ME? I — I DIDN'T MEAN WHAT I SAID — I KNOW YOUR ASSIGNMENT MUST BE VERY URGENT AND —
THERE, THERE, HONEY — IT WAS ALL RIGHT — I DON'T BLAME YOU A BIT — I FEEL THAT WAY MYSELF! — LISTEN, I'M GOING TO CALL THE CHIEF — TELL HIM I CAN'T MAKE THE GRADE AND ----
NO, NO, DAVID, YOU PRECIOUS MAN — YOU MUSTN'T DO THAT! — YOU MUST CATCH YOUR PLANE — IT'S YOUR DUTY — I WANT YOU TO GO! IT WAS WRONG, — SELFISH, — OF ME TO FEEL ANY OTHER WAY! BLESS YOU, DEAR! — COME BACK TO ME — AS SOON AS YOU CAN!
SO DAVID CAUGHT HIS PLANE!

BUSINESS NEWS PROPS MARKET, WAR SHARES UP

Aviations Helped by Belief Amendment Will Lift Embargo Restrictions.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Selected war shares regained some of their popularity in today's market, with aircrafts particularly favored.

Prominent on the early upswing were Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Consolidated Aircraft, Glenn Martin, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, Allied Chemical, U. S. Gypsum, Sears Roebuck and Caterpillar Tractor. Hesitant were American Can, Chrysler, Goodyear and Dupont.

Business news generally continued as the main buying stimulant, brokers said. Belief that belligerent nations would place large orders for airplanes in this country, if and when the neutrality law is amended, aided the aviations, a number of which touched new highs for the year.

Among overnight items studied in boardrooms were:

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicted continued improvement in the demand for farm products, but warned that a further upturn in the general level of wholesale prices may have to await actual increases in export demand and domestic utilization. The bureau said an industrial output rate approximating that of 1929 might be attained before the year ends, but consumer incomes would still be about 10 per cent less owing to the price level.

Construction awards, as summarized by the Engineering News-Record for the week ended Tuesday, totalled $56,228,000 against $70,643,000 the week before and $65,224,000 in the same 1938 period.

Merchandising sources expressed satisfaction over expanding retail collections. Stores reporting to the credit bureau of greater New York during September found collections were 1.7 per cent better than in the comparable month of the previous year.

FIRES OPENING GUN FOR DEMS

Hunter Cites Record for Past 21 Months as Vote Drive Begins in Earnest.

"Are the progressive policies which we have adopted to be continued? Or are the reins of the city government to be placed in the hands of inexperienced, immature political opportunists? I can't believe that the voters of Mansfield want the latter to happen," Hunter added.

The mayor discussed the "high spots" of his two years in office. He discussed the city's financial program, the "modernization" of the fire and police departments and public improvements gained.

Commending what he termed the "best group of department heads" the city has ever had," he said:

"I cannot take the glory for the fine outstanding work that has been done by the administration. The economic and efficient manner in which your government has been run the past two years should go to the department heads of your city. But I will take credit for surrounding myself with the men qualified by experience."

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, seeking his eighth term, described the "entire Democratic ticket" as one that Mansfield should "be justly proud of" pointing out that it represented "men of ability, experience in your city business, and property owners who have spent practically their entire lives in the community."

"The average age of our candidates is 46," he said. "The average years as a resident of this community 41 years. Number of years service as elective officials are 54.

"The Democratic candidates for the executive positions of which there are only three—mayor, auditor and treasurer—have had 28 years of experience with your local city government as compared with no years of actual experience on the part of the opposition," he said.

G. A. Baer, chairman of the Richland county central committee introduced Atty. George H. Blecker, former county prosecutor, a candidate for judge of municipal court.

"I make no promise to my friends nor enemies but if elected I promise a square deal," Blecker said.

"I don't believe that after judgment is pronounced that it should be tampered with. It should stand and not be changed later because some friend approaches in behalf of the one adjudged," he asserted.

Other candidates introduced at the meeting were City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, City Treasurer Glenn A. Davidson, Sixth Ward Councilman Arthur L. Croak, Fifth Ward Councilman Fred Miller, all candidates for re-election and Henry A. Beilstein candidate for Third ward councilman, and Jacob Kutschall, candidate for Fourth ward councilman.

G. O. P. to Crowd Campaign Into 2 Weeks.

Mansfield Republicans had completed plans today for a two-week municipal campaign which will open with a rally Monday night, probably at the Brinkerhoff school in the Second ward, a traditional G. O. P. stronghold.

Crowding their campaign into the shortest period they have used in a municipal drive in years, G. O. P. leaders have scheduled three rallies next week and at least three the final week before election, covering each of the city's six wards.

Following Monday night's opener, a rally will be held Tuesday night at Prospect park and another Wednesday night at North Lake park. The Republican Women's council will sponsor the Wednesday meeting which will follow a dinner at 6 p. m. in the park pavilion.

While William J. Locke, the party candidate for mayor, is not scheduled to speak until the Monday meeting, he said he would issue a statement containing the highlights of his platform either Friday or Saturday.

A newcomer in politics, Locke has been actively campaigning in all parts of the city for several weeks without the help of rallies.

At a "pep" session last night at party headquarters in the Warner building, nearly 60 central committeemen organized a campaign to get out the sick and absentee vote before the Nov. 2 deadline.

Voters who will be out of the city election day will be urged to vote at election board headquarters immediately or apply for absentee ballots. Party workers will also arrange to provide ballots for persons who will be unable to go to the polls Nov. 7 because of illness.

BRITAIN HELPS SERVICE MEN'S DEPENDENT KIN

Allowance Range From $1.40 to $1.50 Per Week for Dependent Families.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Financial assistance to non-commissioned members of the army, navy and air force with families will be given by the government on a scale relating to the size of families and conditional upon an additional fixed contribution being made by each family man in the ranks.

The weekly rates of allowance will be 17 shillings for a wife, 5 shillings for the first child, 3 shillings for the second child, 2 shillings for the third, and a shilling for every additional child. (A shilling at current exchange is 20 cents.) But in addition to the allowance, an allotment is to be taken from the man's pay and forwarded to his family on the basis of his rank and pay. This scale ranges from 7 shillings in the case of a man on the lowest rate to 28 shillings for the highest rate.

Single men or married men where family or marriage allowance is not being made may claim a dependent's allowance for one genuine dependent, including grandparents, parents, brothers, sisters, separated wives and children, grandchildren and foster parents.

Three classes of payments, 12 shillings, 17 shillings, and 20 shillings 6 pence, will be made in this division, depending upon the financial circumstances of each family. Furthermore, dependents' allowances will include the assessed allotment from the soldier's pay, which will range from 7 shillings up.

The top rate of 20 shillings 6 pence will be limited to cases in which the dependent is a widowed mother or other person who is living alone without other means of income and to whom the service man in question was contributing not less than that amount prior to his joining the service.

No allowance will be made to any household where, after deductions for rent and rates, the income per head per week exceeds 15 shillings.

WORK FOR ALL

Arizona Prison Starts 'Baby WPA' Program.

FLORENCE, Ariz.—(UP)—Convicts of the Arizona state prison, where nearly 40 inmates escaped last year, are being kept busy now under a "baby WPA" inaugurated by Warden Gene Shute.

Shute said he was instituting a work-for-all program of "pick and shovel and wheelbarrow pushing" for the convicts "so they won't think they're in a rest home."

"We are putting every one of the men to work," the warden said. "We are going to develop muscles in them. They are going to dig ditches, haul dirt in the wheelbarrows, not trucks, so they will feel like going to bed at night and sleep instead of thinking up ideas of getting away."

Book of the Week

"THE NAZARENE," by Sholem Asch; (Putnam: $3).

PROBABLY the most interesting literary reactions of next month will come when Sholem Asch's "The Nazarene" is distributed to Book-of-the-Month Club members. This is a book (called a novel for want of a better name although it is not a novel in the usual sense) which probably will be wholly outside the experience of two-thirds of the people who will receive it. It touches a delicate theme, which is the life of Christ.

It is written by one of the ablest Jewish writers of the day. And it is so long, so painstaking and so detailed that what action there is in the book is almost entirely lost sight of. For dozens of pages on end, nothing whatever happens beyond minor movements within a room, or a shifting of position at table.

There are 698 pages in Mr. Asch's book, and this reader was not able to read more than half of them in the allotted day. Apparently the author has tried to put adequately on paper the entire world scene at the time of the Christ, and perhaps has succeeded as well as any man can.

But he was not content with painting a broad panorama, but felt it essential to include also the detail, all the detail. There is a peculiarly oriental quality about the result—the reader is reminded inevitably of those eastern craftsmen who sit patiently carving whole stories on peach stones, a month or a year to a design.

So that although a monumental project has been completed with the aid of huge effort and a genius for productive scholarship, the question is whether both the effort and the scholarship should not have gone into a rich formal study of the period without fictional additions.

This is the more acute a question when the device employed at the outset of "The Nazarene" is considered. Mr. Asch has a certain Polish scholar draw into his orbit a young Jewish scholar, who little by little realizes that the older man is a reincarnation of a Roman commander stationed in Jerusalem at the time of Christ. The old man begins his story of what he saw in those remote days; later the narrator changes miraculously, and strange things happen in the hearts of both men.

Perhaps this is a dangerous device, but certainly the result is a view of important things past which has not been had before, at least in English.

There is some writing of almost unearthly beauty, and some scenes of such significance that they burn sharply into the reader's mind. A puzzling, but probably a great book this is.

30 Eligible For Conservancy Tax Refund In County

Nearly 30 Richland county property owners who paid their Muskingum Conservancy district taxes for the entire year are eligible for a refund of half of the amount they paid, conservancy district officials said today.

The refund will be made under the Flood Control bill which gives control of the Muskingum district to the U. S. War department and waives three semi-annual conservancy tax collections.

County Treasurer John E. Kolb pointed out that about 30 Richland countians paid their Muskingum conservancy tax for the entire year in the first half collection while the present set-up requires payment of only the first half levies.

Persons eligible for refunds may obtain them by writing to the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district, New Philadelphia, O., enclosing their tax receipts and a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Kolb said he had forwarded approximately $50 to the conservancy district for refunds to Richland county. The entire Conservancy tax charge for the county was only $164.

Hopkins used a new type cartridge developed in cooperation with two eastern sportsmen, Charles O'Neill and Elmer Keith. The hue bruin was brought down with one shot at 200 yards.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

There is something about the journeys of pioneers which never fails to interest young readers. Both of the new books to be displayed this week describe exciting journeys, one by stagecoach and the other by the unusual vehicle described by the title of the book.

THE LITTLE HOUSE ON RUNNERS, by Marjorie Hayes — The same family which once took a trip in the Little House on Wheels are now traveling to Boston from Vermont in the wintertime so they put the same little house on runners this time. In Boston Charles attends the Boston Latin school and plays with Nathan Hale's nephew. Lottie attends Bronson Alcott's school and plays with Louisa who is a very small child.

ALL THE DAYS WERE ANTONIA'S, by McKnwn and Gleeson—Antonia is usually known as Tony, especially during the excitement of the stagecoach journey from Cheyenne, Wyoming to Deadwood, Montana. Tony's father operates a bank in that desolate little prairie town and Tony and her mother make their home there for a time.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1939.

An "upset" in football appears to be any result that is different than you thought it would be.

It has been about decided that no Nobel peace prize will be offered this year—but the idea should at least be kept in mind.

After clearing up the handbills and circulars from porch and yard the housewife is seldom in the mood to be favorably impressed by their contents.

To Parents of Bicycle Riders

WHILE bicycles are ridden on streets largely given to automobile and truck traffic, such tragedies as that which resulted in the death of a Mansfield boy yesterday afternoon are quite likely to occur at any time—as practically every motorist can recite personal experiences of having at some time narrowly escaped collision with a youthful bicyclist.

It is not in the nature of things that school children of ages most common to bicycle riding can be expected to realize the danger involved, or to be sufficiently cautious to avoid needless risks while riding in the street.

The matter of teaching children rules of carefulness in bicycle riding is very definitely a responsibility of parents, before entrusting their child with a wheel, and this should include assurance that the child is able to ride well, that he will avoid smart-aleck tricks while riding, that he will keep his mind on possible dangers and be able to think quickly in an emergency.

The maiming or killing of a child is too frightful a thing to be lightly passed over as a mere incident in the city's traffic record. The finality of death, and the agony associated with such an occurrence, should be thoughtfully considered by every parent—and it may be said that it would be much better for a child who cannot be safely entrusted with a bicycle to be deprived of it for a time, rather than to permit needless risk of death or possibly permanent injuries.

Bicycling is a pleasant outdoor pastime for young people, as well as a means of economical transportation, but the element of risk must also be taken into account and habits of extreme carefulness required of all children who are permitted to ride on city streets.

All careful drivers of automobiles, of course, will use every effort to avoid collision with a bicycle rider, but this cannot always be done. Bicycle riders must also be careful—and it is largely up to parents to make them understand this.

Capital In the Storm Cellar

SOME forty years ago Senator Burton wrote a little book entitled "Crises and Depressions." In that book he said: "The central fact in all depressions, as well as in those crises which are followed by depressions, is the condition of capital. These disturbances are due to derangements in its condition which, for the most part, assume the form of waste or excessive loss of capital, or its absorption, to an exceptional degree, in enterprises not immediately remunerative."

That is as sound as on the day it was written. And, if anything, is of more vital significance now than it was two generations ago. The condition of capital affects every business, every job, every man's livelihood and opportunities. It is capital that makes factories hum, builds homes and provides the wages which pay butcher, baker and candlestick maker. And it is lack of active capital which makes and prolongs depression.

There has been talk about capital being "on a strike." What has really happened is that capital has been forced into channels "not immediately remunerative." Government policy has required untold billions of bank deposits — the normal source of capital for industry and commerce—to be tied up in government securities, and to be used for non-productive purposes. "Risk capital" has been made practically extinct by suicidal tax and regulatory laws which take most of the profit incentive out of legitimate speculation.

It is important to keep in mind, also, that all enterprises in their early stages are speculative—that out of speculations of the past came the great "conservative" employing industries of the present.

High School Band Uniforms

WILLINGNESS of members of the Mansfield Senior high school band to share in the work involved in getting together enough money to buy new uniforms is another indication of the interest these young folks take in their fine musical organization.

Probably everyone knows that regular school funds cannot be used for purchase of band uniforms, and that such equipment must be supplied from voluntary contributions, or earnings by interested students.

A group of Mansfield men known as the Boosters' club has, for a number of years, taken the initiative in encouraging public support of high school athletic and band activities, and it is interesting to note that students are anxious to do their share in every possible way.

Next Saturday's "tag day," through which it is hoped to get a large number of small contributions for band-uniform replacements, will offer opportunity for many Mansfielders to show appreciation of their high school band, of which they are so justly proud on occasions of its public appearance.

New Census Difficulty

"THE country of birth of each person is that in which his birth is now located." That is the rule the United States census bureau followed in taking the 1930 census. That is the rule it intended to follow in the coming census in 1940, until the map of Europe began to change so fast.

Statistical experts foresee many problems and less accuracy in the rule since Nazi Germany got its great annexation scheme under way. For example, a person born in a Polish town would be compelled now to give his place of birth as either Germany or Russia. In 1900 he might have said Austria. In 1921 he could have said the Polish republic.

The census bureau is therefore considering a supplementary question. It may ask each individual to name his native tongue. This would not be a universally accurate identification, but it surely would give a truer picture of the elements in the American melting pot than the old method.

Referring to a new 800-page book, a Canadian reviewer remarks: "Once laid down it can hardly be picked up."

Few things are more difficult than to tolerate intolerance.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Those who pursue the shop-lined sidewalks of Sixth avenue are apt to find themselves just a mite startled at what appears to be a skull, but it isn't at all. I had seen it many times out of the corner of my eye, but it wasn't until my hat blew off and I picked it up in front of this window that I stopped to scrutinize this eery drawing.

Perhaps you would call it a lithograph. It looks like a skull with a peculiarly pointed chin. But when you come closer the skull turns out to be a pretty girl sitting at a dressing table. Her head and the reflection of her face in the mirror form the eyes of the skull. Across the table is a row of cosmetics, and these are the teeth. There is a cover of some kind on the table, which forms the chin, and the mirror itself is the white outline of the skull. Just one word under the sketch gives it its title—"Vanity." I couldn't make out the artist's name—but he surely had a brainstorm on this one.

JOE DI MAGGIO, the bashful Yankee, had never met Mary Martin, who is from Texas and quite lovely, until they came together in front of a microphone the other night. Joe, who is to become a bridegroom soon and who has just received another big check for his services in the baseball wars, was standing in one of the CBS booths with Walter O'Keefe when Mary ("My Heart Belongs to Daddy") came in. She saw that Joe had a mouth full of chewing gum. . . . "Got another slab of that gum?" she asked . . . "Naw," nawed Joe, digging his toe into the rug. "I chiseled this one myself."

Another incident with a baseball twist concerns the sports writer, John Drebinger, who was making a speech in Cincinnati the other day. Drebinger is quite deaf, but he noted his audience was holding its sides, laughing, so he quickly turned on an electrical hearing apparatus which he carries with him. . . . "This speech is so good," he explained, "I want to hear it myself."

XAVIER CUGAT, the orchestra leader, still tells people he is an artist. . . . The truth of the matter is, Cugat is an able caricaturist, and once toured the country with Caruso.

I'm still a little shaky after that explosion in 23rd street which killed three people and wounded 25 others. . . . It was a cleaning establishment and it simply—blew up. . . . I was in front of that place just half an hour before the explosion came. I might have still been there, except that I had an appointment with John Golden and hurried on over to Broadway to keep it.

Perhaps no mimic can caricature so many people, so well, as John Hoysradt, the actor. . . . Although he goes from Chamberlain, Hitler, Roosevelt, on down to Billy Rose, my favorite is his take off on Noel Coward, a priceless bit of foolery which also combines great artistry. . . . Hoysradt is now doing double duty—in the Rainbow Room and in "The Man Who Came to Dinner," the Hart-Kaufman comedy. Hoysradt, by the way, is an ex-school teacher and once had the Roosevelt boys.

THE LIFE PRESERVER

Listen, World!

"Death Can Be the Triumph, Life Can Mean Defeat."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WARSAW HAS FALLEN. Impossible to realize what they must have meant . . . those blurred and bloody weeks . . . that dumb, stunned waiting for the certain end. Forcing their feet through piles of putrifying dead. Reloading guns, with eyes gone blank and blind. Broadcasting "good news," with the death spume bubbling in their throats. And knowing all the while, "it wasn't any good"—it wouldn't, couldn't help.

Knowing that nothing would help . . . that must have been the worst of all they had to face. Not talking. Not thinking. Not reasoning why. Just knowing, yet going on. Fighting for something that had lost its name. Dying for something they no longer felt. Yet going on. Holding out. Seeing it through . . . Not giving in, 'till the common crowd went wild . . . came screeching, scrambling, holding their dead babies, dragging their dead mothers . . . Not giving in 'till then.

AND ALL THE TIME, A WORD WOULD HAVE SET THEM FREE! That's the incredible thing . . . the heart-breakingly glorious thing. They needn't have suffered, thirsting 'till the black tongues lolled out of their mouths. They needn't have starved . . . going empty, endlessly, 'til the very smell of food made them retch. They could have gone clear of it all, with just a word.

No one wanted them to die. It would have been expedient not to. They could have gone free—and been thanked for the going. But they wouldn't. And they didn't. They stuck.

And now, of course, many will be calling them heroes—because that's the thing to do. But, beneath the praise, more will be wondering why they did it. "To throw away life like that . . . to suffer so needlessly . . . such a useless waste . . . poor fools . . . they must have been crazy!"

"A useless waste of life." Then so was Christ's—and Father Damien's . . . Socrates', Lincoln's, gallant Joan of Arc's—Edith Cavell's. They, too, could easily have saved themselves . . . And yet, like those at Warsaw, they went blindly on . . . not feeling flames, nor counting eating sores, nor shirking cups of hemlock . . . nor the cross's weight . . . nor bullets.

NOT SPEAKING OF, NOR THINKING OF THE PRICE—

JUST STICKING BY THE THING THEY CAME TO DO—

BECAUSE IT SEEMED THE BEST, THE ONLY WAY OF LIFE.

A "wasted life"—what is it? To LIVE, for your own profit . . . or to GIVE, for the whole world's gain? Naomi Lane Babson said something about that in her book—"ALL THE TOMORROWS." Jade, the doomed sister, cries—

"Life matters only because of what we do with it. You can waste eighty years as well as twenty, and many people do so: others in two or three short decades make imprints that endure for many ages. How many men of sixty—seventy—eighty—died, do you think, on the day that Christ was crucified? And were they better than he because they had lived longer? Who knows their names today? Old age is not the only thing worth living for. Death can be the triumph, life can mean defeat."

"Death can be the triumph, life can mean defeat" . . . Christ said it in another way—"He who would save his life, shall lose it." Lose it in so many dreary, obscure ways—as well as flaming acts, like those at Warsaw. Washing the kitchen dishes . . . nursing the baby's cold . . . catching the 8:15 subway when you want to go fishing instead?

A wasted life?

I WONDER IF HE'LL CALL IT THAT, WHEN THEY ALL GO LIMPING HOME!

Unprecedented Treasure

The Masterpieces of Art Exhibition at the New York world's fair represents the greatest collection of old masters the world has ever seen. Probably never again will such a concentration of artistic treasures be possible. Ranging from Rembrandt, Titian, Van Dyck, and Watteau, through the whole catalogue of great masters, this exhibition records the development of the painter's art through its greatest days.

Under the supervision of the directors of the Detroit Institute of Arts, a non-profit corporation called the Art Associates, Inc., was formed to build the special structure necessary to house these priceless paintings, and private contributions were secured to underwrite the heavy expense of shipping, insuring and guarding these works from damage by fire or theft. The collection has an estimated worth of $30,000,000.

Timely Editorial

Bigelow Pension Amendment.

Not in recent years, if ever before, in Ohio history has there been so general a mobilization of sentiment against a political measure as is now seen against the two so-called Bigelow constitutional amendments which Buckeye voters will pass judgment on next month.

Civic and commercial organizations, leaders of both political parties, citizens whose opinions count in the community, ex-governors, leaders in business, farm leaders, women's organizations, manufacturers—all unite to resist a proposal unsound and menacing. It would be a reflection on the intelligence of an intelligent state to suggest that either of the Bigelow amendments might be adopted.

Neither will be written into the constitution unless a majority of Ohio voters are bereft of reason and blind to obvious facts.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Health And Diet

What Children Do Not Inherit.

—By DR. CLENDENING

A MOST valuable book is called You and Heredity, by Amram Scheinfeld and Dr. Morton D. Schweitzer (Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York). The authors point out that the effect of heredity has been discussed at great length about animals, but very little has been written which could be understood by the layman about heredity in man—in other words, you.

I take the opportunity of excerpting certain interesting features of the volume.

What we do not inherit: Our children are not affected by any change that takes place within our body cells. Imagine that you have a large, life-size plastic statue of yourself, and inside of it is a small, hermetically sealed container filled with millions of microscopic replicas of this statue. Suppose, then, that you pull out of shape and enlarge the nose of the big statue. Could that, by any means you could conceive, automatically enlarge all the noses of all the millions of little statues inside?

They have bound the feet of Chinese women for centuries, and yet all Chinese female babies are born with normal feet.

You cannot improve your child's mind by educating yourself. Your children would be born with exactly the same mental equipment even if you have acquired a string of degrees from Yale to Oxford.

The age of the male parent makes no difference in the health of the children. A man of 95 is still capable of producing virile children and there are records of men who did. The children are the same in their hereditary factors as if the father were 16.

Pass on Accomplishments?

"Can I pass onto my child any of the accomplishments or improvements I have made in myself?" The answer is "Yes," you can pass on a great deal, but not by heredity—by training and environment.

Animals not of the same variety, but of related kind, can produce offspring, but the offspring are sterile. The most familiar case is the horse and the donkey, which produce the mule, but the mule can produce no offspring.

All human beings, however, are fertile with one another. The smallest pygmy and the tallest Nordic could produce a perfectly normal child, because all human beings regardless of race, type, color or any other classifications are, as members of the same species, compatible with one another.

At the World's Fair they have a machine that solves all the hereditary problems for a young couple contemplating marriage. A small figure having the characteristics of the mother—blue eyes, brown hair, etc.—is shown, and another shows the characteristics of the father. Punch the button beneath these and soon there is a picture of what the child will look like. Thus, you can eliminate all chance.

Ohio Anecdotes

Stephen Decatur.

Undimmed by the brilliant career of Commodore Oliver H. Perry in the War of 1812, the highly successful career of Stephen Decatur was starred with exceptional naval victories.

In command of the warship United States, Decatur sailed toward the Canary Islands with the express purpose of meeting and doing battle with British men o' war.

H. M. S. Macedonia with a prize crew aboard was the victim. A short, fierce battle resulted in the Macedonia's surrender.

Decatur already was a hero for squelching the Barbary pirates in the Mediterranean. His most famous utterance was, "My Country, may she ever be right, but my country, right or wrong." Ironically, Decatur met death not on the high seas but rather ingloriously on the dueling field.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The inside of the second Lindbergh radio broadcast is that the flying colonel shifted back and forth several times before he finally made up his mind on neutrality. In the end it was friends of Herbert Hoover who helped make up his mind for him.

The first to urge Lindbergh to make a second speech clarifying his neutrality views was Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia, severe Roosevelt critic, but working actively for the president in the arms embargo fight.

Byrd got in touch with Lindbergh shortly after his first broadcast and found that the flier had not meant to oppose the lifting of the arms embargo. In fact, he said that he really sided with the president, and expressed irritation that certain Coughlinites were quoting his first radio speech as such conclusive argument for retaining the embargo.

So Lindbergh promised Senator Byrd that he would broadcast a second time and line up with Roosevelt.

But just one day after Byrd had received that promise, Lindbergh was called in by Senator Borah, leading isolationist. The two talked a long time. Afterward Lindbergh seemed to lean toward the isolationist side.

* * *

Middle Course.

MEANWHILE, Herbert Hoover had come out for an embargo against offensive arms, but no ban on the sale of defensive arms.

It was William R. Castle, jr., former under-secretary of state, who did the rest. He has known Lindbergh for years. He has known Hoover for an even longer period, and still represents the Hoover faction indirectly on the Republican national committee.

Torn between Borah, the complete isolationist, and Byrd, the anti-isolationist, Lindbergh took a middle course. He adopted the Hoover thesis of differentiating between offensive and defensive weapons.

Note—Lindbergh admitted in his speech that differentiation between offensive and defensive weapons would be very difficult.

* * *

Very "Happy" Chandler.

MIGHTY pleased with himself was Kentucky's new Senator "Happy" Chandler when Vice President Garner motioned to him to take over the presiding chair, a few days after he became a full-fledged senator.

"Some of the senators complimented me on the way I handled things," he boasted later; "told me I acted like a veteran. Of course, it was nothing new to me. I had considerable experience when I presided over the Kentucky senate. But they thought I did mighty well, especially on my first ruling."

"What was it, Senator?" asked a friend; "Something tough?"

"Well, not exactly," admitted "Happy" with a grin. "Nye asked to insert something in the Record and I said, 'Without objection, it is so ordered'."

Note—When invited to call on the president last week, Chandler hurriedly telephoned Senator Alben Barkley, whom he tried to lick last year, and asked him to accompany him to the White House. Chandler told Roosevelt he "hoped" to support his legislative program.

* * *

McNutt's Double.

THE White House doesn't know it, but more than one postmaster attending the National Association of Postmasters convention here returned home firmly convinced that Roosevelt intended to boost the presidential aspirations of Paul McNutt. It happened this way:

Roosevelt greeted the postmasters from the second story portico overlooking the White House gardens, where they gathered en masse. He was flanked on one side by Postmaster General Jim Farley and on the other by his naval aide, Captain Dan Callahan. Callahan is tall, white haired, and handsome. From a distance he might easily be taken for McNutt. And that is exactly what some of the postmasters did.

Shortly after they returned to their hotels, the lobbies buzzed with the excited comment, "Did you see the way the President 'put the hand' on McNutt?" whispered the postmasters. "Had him right by his side, arm in arm."

Note—McNutt wasn't even in Washington that day, but the postmasters got a good close-up of Jim Farley. At his own reception for them, he shook hands with 4,500 plus their families; a total of perhaps 7,000 persons, all in about two and a half hours. Jim is an experienced handshaker but he was exhausted when he finished.

Merry-Go-Round.

WHEN one of the legations called the Library of Congress the other day to ask for a book by Woodrow Wilson, the answer was, "Every one of the Wilson books is out. Members of congress are doing their home work." . . . Those interested in labor problems should read the opinion of Judge Justin Miller of the D. C. court of appeals in which he sets aside Miss Perkins' wage-fixing under the Walsh-Healey act. Judge Miller ruled that the little steel companies were not obliged to accept the same wage scale as the big companies in Pittsburgh, Youngstown, etc. He applied the old Brandeis theory to an industry where no one would expect to find it . . . It was O. Max Gardner, ex-governor of North Carolina, who won the case for the little steel companies. . . . The WPA is saying nothing about it but Matt Murray, Missouri WPA administrator, will shortly be replaced. Murray is a Pendergast man, but his ouster has nothing to do with the jailed political boss.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

"Old" Folks?

The folks you read about, who do
So many things at eighty, are
An inspiration to the rest
Or us. We learn age is no bar

To doing almost anything.
The paper chronicles that one
Who is a hundred years of age
Just now "bike" riding has begun!

A gentleman of ninety took
His first ride on an airplane, states
The paper, also that he drives
A car, enjoys his roller skates.

We read of it and our own years,
Mere fifty, bother us no more.
An inspiration are the old
Who will not let time take the score.

'The Heavens Declare'

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE last 20 miles of our homeward trip were the color climax of the day. It was sundown as we turned further toward the west. Two low fleecy clouds stretched parallel above the horizon and reflected the fading sun rays in soft, living, changing hues of orchid and rose, shading into purple. A flaming rim of brilliant, melting gold marked the sun's last resting place upon the lower cloud bank. Then, gradually the glory faded. The clouds became their gray, accustomed selves. A thin new moon peeped out from the scudding grayness scarcely visible at first, then more apparent as dusk deepened.

We rounded the road bend at the hilltop and paused to look upon our home town in its evening dress. It lay below us, a city of 40,000, sprawled lengthwise in the valley—a fairyland of twinkling lanterns, half hidden by a smoky haze of autumn fog. Out of the fog the towering courthouse spire, with its illuminated clock, the square blocks of the greater business houses, and the large electric sign of one of the city's nationally known manufacturing plants, loomed distant and imposing. Upon the hilltop as we descended, we left behind the silhouetted forms of a little suburb of cabin trailers.

The city was quiet. People were in their homes, with lighted windows. The stores had closed, and rush of traffic was over for the day. We drove straight through and pursued our westward course.

By the time we reached the other edge, the sky had changed again to the gold and green of the afterglow. Above the black woods to the southwest, the slender moon rode, clear and bright in a pale green sky. The two low clouds, so gorgeous with color so short a time before, were now as black as ink.

We drove down the gravel road between the woods, to our own lane, where our little house, unlighted and cold, loomed blackly beneath its protecting maple tree. Yet even as we left the car, to carry a sleepy youngster up to bed, we paused for one more look at the clear night sky. The stars were coming out. The ceaseless majesty of the universe was there, stretched plain, inviting whomever had eyes to see to stretch his gaze and rest his tired orbs upon the bigness of the wider view.

HARVESTING OF BIG CORN CROP STARTS EARLY

Richland Farmers Profit by Ideal Weather; See Yield Far Above Average.

Ideal weather conditions had enabled Richland county farmers to start harvesting their bumper corn crop today, a week or 10 days earlier than usual.

The Richland county area escaped serious drought damage and the county's corn crop is expected to be far above the average yield, County Agent George B. Ganyard said.

Some farmers are reporting yields of 70 bushels or more per acre as against the county's 10-year average of about 37 bushels per acre, the county agent said.

Hybrids Boost Yield.

He attributed the increase in yield partly to the widespread use hybrid varieties of corn which withstand drought better than the ordinary varieties. Although hybrids have been used commercially only five or six years, more than half of the county's corn this year was produced from hybrid seed, Ganyard said.

Mechanical corn pickers are at work in county fields and a few shredders have started, the county agent reported. Considerable corn is being husked by hand and the fodder fed from the shock.

The abnormally dry fall caused the corn to ripen ahead of schedule, but some of the fodder is so dry that it is difficult to handle, Ganyard said.

TRUCK KILLS BOY CYCLIST

Youth Falls Under Wheels of Vehicle in Accident in Front of City Hall.

He said he had been given an eye-witness account of the accident by Ralph Schad, former police chief who was sitting in his car at the curb.

Schad told the prosecutor that the youth fell in front of the truck. It was believed that the boy had struck his head on the pavement as he fell. Schad related young Bell failed to move before the vehicle passed over his chest.

Police who extricated the youth's body said his chest and shoulders were crushed.

Young Bell, a student at John Simpson Junior high school in the Warner building, was born Sept. 20, 1925, in Lakewood, and came to Mansfield about a year ago.

He is survived by his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mayer; his father, Glenn Bell; one brother, Willard, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gwalchmai of Cleveland.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday with Rev. O. S. Goermer, assistant pastor at the First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery at Twinsburg, O.

TRUSTEES SIGN FIRE CONTRACT

SHELBY — Sharon township trustees today had signed a fire protection contract with the Shelby fire department for protection for the township at a cost of $800 for the year period, city officials disclosed.

The contract was presented to the trustees by city officials earlier this month, but was rejected by the trustees due to a new clause that was inserted this year in the contract. The new clause which was taken out of the contract by city council this week prohibited the fire department from making a rural call for a grass, muck or brush fire that was not endangering a building.

event that might prove decisive in the war.

Although these sources considered it also a defeat for the Soviet union they contrasted the expression of continued friendliness between Turkey and Russia with what they interpreted as signs of a cooling off in relations between Germany and Turkey.

Germany's ambassador to Turkey, Franz von Papen, was described in the press as having brought intense pressure on Turkey to win her from the western powers.

Von Papen's departure from Ankara for Berlin yesterday, on what was said to have been a summons from his government, was reported gleefully by the British press.

In some diplomatic quarters it was suggested that Russia, merely as a formality to satisfy Germany, have made last minute demands on Turkey to abandon Britain and France.

Kuhn OK's Nazi-Red Pact, Lashes Anew at Communism

BUND LEADER BACK BEFORE DIES PROBERS

Protests Questions About Polish Invasion, Bares List of Followers.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American bund, told the Dies committee today he approved the recent German-Russian pact but that the bund would continue to fight Communists here.

Kuhn told the committee that it would take him 25 minutes to explain the pact when Rep. Joe Starnes, D., Ala., asked whether the bund would drop its anti-Communistic policies because of the pact.

"We'll fight the ideology of any (Marxist) ideas," Kuhn said.

He asserted that because Great Britain, the United States and other western powers refused to trade with Germany "it was necessary to open the door to the East."

The committee's morning session ended with Chairman Martin Dies, D., Tex., pounding his gavel for order after Starnes asked Kuhn's opinion of the German march into Poland. Kuhn and his attorneys jumped to their feet and shouted objections, contending that the bund leader was not called to explain Germany's foreign policy.

Dies recessed the hearing for lunch when order was restored.

Kuhn, discussing the Russo-German pact, pointed out that Germany "is a small country with a high population" and asserted that it needed to import many raw materials.

Therefore, he continued, it "begged Great Britain for years" in a vain effort to procure these materials, and then "begged the United States" equally unsuccessfully.

"There," he added, "is where we came in."

The bund, he said, sought to rally public opinion in this country in support of greater exports to the reich, which, he said, had been considerable strengthened by the "new government."

Asked by Starnes if he meant Hitler, Kuhn snapped "no," adding:

"Are you the American government?"

Starnes read from a list of bund units furnished the committee by Kuhn, and remarked that an unusually large percentage of the units were located in and around New York City.

Dates For Four Scouting Events Set Up By Leaders

Dates for four scouting activities were set at a meeting of scoutmasters from the Mansfield district last night at headquarters in the Elks building.

Plans were outlined for the annual Halloween party, scoutmasters' dinner, area and local court of honor and scoutmaster's training course.

The Halloween party for all Scouts in the district, will be held Oct. 31. The affair will be a combined mystery party and treasure hunt. Plans are in charge of a committee made up of Glenn Pore, chairman, Robert Taylor, C. G. Hillier, Carl Stough, Robert Stevenson and Fred Elder.

The scoutmasters' dinner, or Scout Widows' party, was set for Dec. 6 at the Elks home. The committee in charge of arrangements is made up of Phlip Smith, chairman, Glenn Pore, C. G. Hililer and Robert Stevenson. A combined area and local court of honor is set for Nov. 30 at the Elks' home, and first session of the scoutmasters' training course is scheduled for Nov. 15 at scout headquarters. "Camp Handicraft" will be the subject for discussion. Mansfield, Lexington and Bellville comprise the Mansfield district.

JUDGE WEIGHS ESTATE CASE

Huston to Decide If 118 Heirs of Farmer or Institutions Should Get $25,000.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston today had taken the Flowers estate case under advisement after hearing evidence yesterday in the five-year-old action.

Substituting by appointment for Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, Judge Huston will decide whether the heirs of Jacob Flowers, Sandusky township farmer who died 21 years ago, or the legatees in his widow's will, are entitled to the estate.

Counsel for the Good Samaritan hospital in Galion and the Methodist Children's home at Worthington, named in the widow's will, contested a ruling giving the estate to 118 heirs of the late farmer.

The case was taken through the county and district courts to the supreme court. Yesterday's hearing was in probate court.

The estate, valued at more than $25,000, is made up largely of real estate in Sandusky township and Galion.

DISCUSS PLANS

Hospital Trustees Talk Over Proposed Addition Again.

The board of directors of Mansfield General hospital continued its discussion on a proposed three-story hospital addition at a meeting last night.

The addition has been under consideration for several months and would cost about $50,000, Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent, said. The addition was proposed in an effort to relieve crowded conditions that have existed from time to time.

Located at the south of the present building, the addition would provide space for 32 additional adult beds, boosting the total capacity to 162. This does not include 38 beds in the nursery.

The estimated cost not only includes the addition, but the expansion of heating facilities to include one large high pressure boiler, the superintendent added.

The project will come up for discussion again at a meeting of the board next Wednesday night.

BIGELOW FOES GATHER FRIDAY TO PUSH DRIVE

County Mass Meeting Set for Legion Home; 2 More Labor Units Endorse Plan.

A county-wide mass meeting sponsored by the Richland County Emergency committee will be held at the American Legion home at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow to crystalize public opinion against the Bigelow plan which comes before voters Nov. 7.

Meanwhile two more labor organizations in Mansfield went on record as favoring the Bigelow proposals, and a third is expected to take action tomorrow night.

The Richland County Industrial Union council and the Women's Label League, both CIO affiliates, endorsed the proposed Bigelow amendments at meetings last night. The Richland County Workers Alliance, an organization of WPA workers, is expected to take similar action Friday night. The county unit of Labor's Non-Partisan League had previously endorsed the Bigelow plan.

Dems Fail To Act.

In the state, political observers were looking around today for an explanation of why there were so few members of the Democratic state central committee present yesterday for a meeting that had been called by Chairman Earl H. Hanefeld to take action against the Bigelow plan. Only 18 of the 44 members responded to his call.

Some observers thought the lack of attendance might have been due to the feeling of some members that the two issues to come before the voters were "too hot" for political safety.

The Republican state central committee announced its opposition Tuesday to both the Bigelow plans and the civil service referendum.

"You'll Pay For It" will be the theme of the talk which Frank B. Pauly will give tomorrow night at the mass meeting. Pauly is a representative of the Ohio Emergency committee, which has launched a vigorous campaign against the two Bigelow proposals. He is a former newspaper publisher and editorial writer and at present is publicity director of the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants.

The Richland County Emergency committee has been set up to help defeat the two Bigelow proposals.

The committee has established an office at 601 Farmers Bank building with Mrs. Thelma Kennedy in charge of the office.

The pension plan calls for $50 a month for single persons and $80 a month for couples over 60, regardless of their needs. Exceptions would be all professional people, small business men, farmers, housewives and school teachers.

COUNTY SCHOOL LEADERS BACK STATE EDUCATION BOARD PLAN

Mansfield and Richland county school leaders were joining others in the state today in support of the proposed appointment of a state board of education which will be voted on at the Nov. 7 election.

Sponsored by the Ohio Education association, an organization of superintendents, principals, and teachers, the proposed reorganization of the state education department has received general approval throughout the state.

Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, said school organizations here had made no open endorsement of the plan, but added that most of them favor it.

The plan calls for the appointment of a nine-member, non-partison state board of education which would choose the education director and map school policies. The governor would name the board, with not more than five members from any political party.

Proponents of the measure argue that a state board would keep politics out of the schools and relieve the state education director of a part of his responsibility for school administration.

Members of the state board would serve without pay but they would receive their traveling expenses. The terms would be arranged so that one member would be appointed every year.

MONEY STOLEN

BUCYRUS—Another of a series of petty robberies which occurred Tuesday night at the M. B. Morrisey candy store, South Poplar street is being investigated by Chief of Police Arthur Stuckert.

Entrance was gained through a south window into a lavatory. Approximately $28 was taken from the cash register and a money drawer.

Police have been called to investigate seven robberies reported during the past two weeks.

EASTERN U. S. FEELS JAR OF SEVERE QUAKE

'Major Earthquake' Recorded, Believed to Have Centered 150 Miles North of N. Y.

(By Associated Press)

Earth tremors, described by a Harvard seismologist as a "major earthquake," were felt in New England, New York state, as far west as Ohio and in eastern Canada today.

Dishes were rattled and pictures set awry, but apparently no serious damage was done.

In New York, the Fordham university seismograph's record showed the tremors were felt first at 6:55:46 a. m. EST. Rev. Joseph Lynch, S. J., said he believed the shocks originated about 150 miles north of New York City.

Dr. L. Don Leet, of Harvard university, estimated the disturbance occurred about 200 miles from Cambridge and probably somewhere off the coast.

He called it the most severe quake registered in the area since Nov. 18, 1929, when tremors off the Grand Banks caused 28 cable breaks. Harvard's seismograph showed the disturbance began at 6:55:25 and lasted about half an hour.

In New England the shock was felt in Worcester, Boston, Springfield and Lawrence, Mass., in Laconia, Nashua and Keene, N. H., Portland, Augusta and Lewiston, Me., and St. Johnsbury, Vt.

Albany, N. Y., also felt it as did cities and towns in eastern Canada, including Montreal and Toronto.

Rev. Joseph C. Joliat, seismologist at John Carroll university, Cleveland, said his machine recorded a tremor lasting nine minutes.

Housewives east of Cleveland said dishes rattled in their homes.

New England motorists said their cars swayed as the earth's surface shook, and one Portland householder reported that coffee spilled over on a stove. A Keene, N. H., woman said her house shook.

Automobiles

The wheezing "struggle buggy" on the left was a rich man's toy in 1916. It sold for $2,500, and keeping it running was pretty much a headache. Today, your car costs $850 or less and is practically trouble-free. Automobiles are better, cost less in '39.

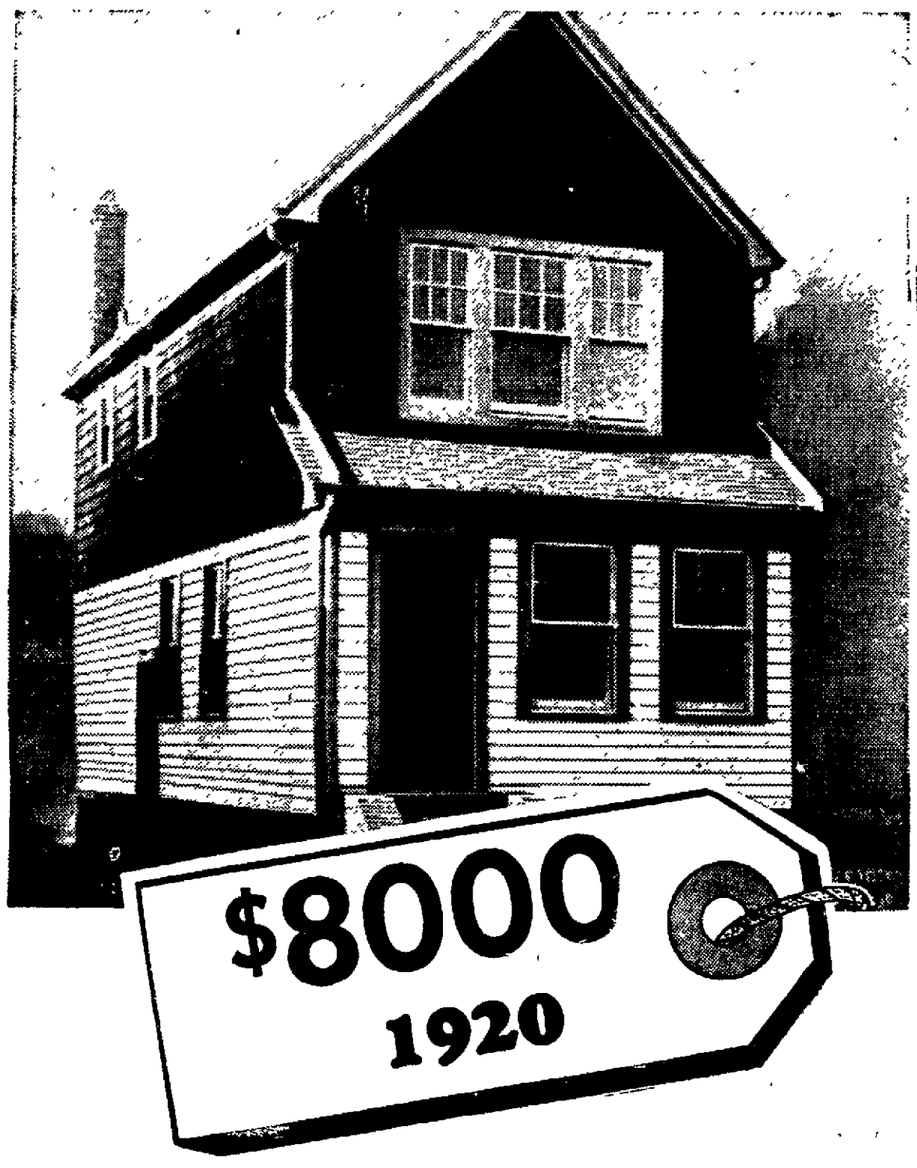
1906

Dresses

Happy was the woman who could afford so fine a dress as the $75 number on the left. Working girls of 1906 only dreamed of such finery. Today, every woman can dress smartly and completely for $19.75. Women's dresses in 1939 cost less, wear longer.

1939



MODERN HOMES OF TODAY ARE BETTER AND CHEAPER

1939 IS THE YEAR TO BUILD!

Houses, too, cost less in 1939!

Like automobiles and women's clothing, houses have come down in price, improved in quality and look better.

Take a look at the house of 1920. Not particularly attractive, is it? No, and it wasn't so practical, either. Insulation was unknown. Interiors and exteriors looked shabby in a short time. Plumbing was undependable. Gas and electric appliances didn't always work right.

Now look at the house of today. Neat and compact, it gives more room for living than ever before. Air conditioning is available. Every feature of today's home is designed to provide more comfort and greater convenience for the home owner. Great engineering strides have made these refinements possible.

Now compare the prices. The home of 1920, similar to the one shown here, sold for approximately $8,000. Today a home like the other house shown here can be built for $6,990 or less. Truly, you get more for your money in 1939.

Another advantage in building today is the lower rates of financing. You save up to one-third on financing charges. Investigate today—you'll be surprised how easy it is to own your own home!

THESE FIRMS WILL SHOW YOU HOW TO GET MORE FOR YOUR BUILDING DOLLARS IN 1939

BRITAIN'S ARP 500 MILLION FISCAL BURDEN

Weekly Expenditure, Including Blackout, Is Shilling Per Capita.

LONDON —(U.P.)— Britain's blackout and air raid precautions are costing the country slightly more than a half a billion a year, or a shilling per person per week.

That is the estimate of Councillor C. P. Grobel, chairman of the Finchley civil defense emergency committee. The figure merely covers the cost of personnel and transport. It does not include capital work.

Workers Unpaid.

In the London County Council area 25,000 auxiliary fire service men and women have been standing by since the war began at a cost of $280,000 a week and in addition there are 10,000 part-time unpaid auxiliary fire service workers.

Blackouts and air raid precautions have doubled the wage bill of the average large London borough.

Croydon's 465 air raid wardens are paid approximately $5,000 a week. The wage bill at Barnes exceeds $3,200 a week and that excludes the salaries of executive officers

Volunteers are said to include business men earning $4,000 a year and retired people receiving high pensions. Barnes ratepayers are also complaining that nearly $400 has been spent on radio sets for air raid warden's posts.

Sutton and Cheam (Surrey) Borough Council, which is paying out around $25,000 a week in air raid precautions staff wages, has been warned that present air raid precautions expenditure may lead to bankruptcy.

Even with a government grant of 60 per cent, ratepayers are anticipating an increase of two shillings in the pound on the rates.

Bournemouth's weekly ARP bill is nearly $20,000 and Portsmouth's reputed to be $40,000. Portsmouth has enrolled 2,500 wardens and the city treasurer has been asked to prepare a statement of the position.

Families are making as much as $50 a week from the ARP system. One humble East End family is said to be getting $50 a week and free meals.

Unemployed First.

Councilor P. T. Twitchet told a meeting of Croydon Council: "There are cases where husbands hold good jobs and their wives are taking paid ARP work for pin money. Unemployed could do with these jobs."

Economies are to be made, the Home Office has announced, "but there will be no wholesale sackings."

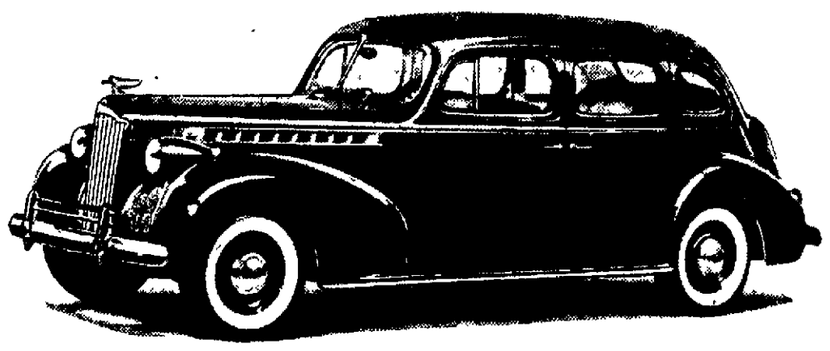
The announcement adds, "local authorities must make sure that a man who gave up his job to do ARP or auxiliary fire service work has a job to go back to before he is dismissed.

"The chief economies in London and other big towns are likely to be made by ending the present system of patroling ARP wardens. Wardens will only be needed for patrols after an alarm has sounded. This measure is expected to release hundreds of full-time wardens."

PIONEER WOMAN CLINGS TO ART

LELAND, Mich.—(U.P.)—The general store provides everything she could need now, but just the same Mrs Martin Bugai, an early Michigan settler, still makes socks and sweaters. Wool from her herd of 45 sheep is sheared, carded, spun, twisted, and knitted after being dyed in solutions of vegetation ranging from onion leaves to Indian weed.

1940 Packards Available In Four Sizes



Available in four sizes, the 1940 Packard cars were on display today at the showrooms of the Crider Motors corporation, 161 Park avenue east. With a more stream-lined appearance, the new cars have Safe-T-flex spring suspension, hydraulic brakes, and steering post levers. The models range from the One-Ten with a 127-inch wheelbase to the One-Eighty which has a 147-inch wheelbase. The others are the One-Twenty and the One-Sixty. Shown above is the One-Sixty four-door sedan.

TURKEY RAISING GOOD BUSINESS

Chicagoan Finds No Better Way to Relax Than to Raise Holiday Delicacy.

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis.—(U.P.)—If you want to forget about business worries, try raising turkeys

W. R James of Chicago and Williams Bay has done it and he insists there's no better way to relax than to raise the Thanksgiving delicacy.

Three years ago James and his family moved to their 33-acre summer home near Williams Bay. James decided to raise a few turkeys—just for fun—and when the Thanksgiving season rolled around he had 10 birds

The next year he boosted the number to 50 and last year he raised 200. His hobby seems to have grown into a fairly substantial business and this year he expects to have 2,000 birds ready for market — whether Thanksgiving falls on Nov. 30 or on Nov. 23, as designated by President Roosevelt. Next season he plans to raise 5,000 birds.

"I'm not one bit sorry that I let my hobby grow to such a size," he said.

The big job in turkey-raising, he explained, is "to raise a bird that is plump but not one weighing around 25 or 30 pounds."

"Anyone can raise big turkeys," he said, "but it's a real job to have a good bird that will weigh around 15 pounds."

U. S. Envoy In Tokyo Flays Jap 'Incidents' In China

SAYS AMERICA RESENTS ACTS OF SOLDIERS

Ambassador Grew Points to Strained Relations; Says Our Rights Menaced.

(By United Press)

TOKYO — American Ambassador Joseph Clark Grew told a luncheon of distinguished Japanese today the American public strongly resented some Japanese army actions in China and the situation would have to be changed if relations were to be improved.

As regards Japan's "new order in East Asia," Grew said Americans understood its significance as well as Japanese and believed it meant an attempt to deprive Americans of their long-standing rights in China.

Grew spoke before 700 Japanese and Americans and other foreigners at a luncheon of the America-Japan society. He had just returned from a long vacation in the United States during which he had acquainted himself with the views of American people and had gone fully into new phases of Japanese-American relations with officials there.

Speaks Frankly.

Opening his speech, Grew gave the background of his leave in the United States and pointed out that the vacation had given him an opportunity to learn American public opinion.

"It would be an insult to your intelligence if I talked of trivialities," he continued, and then launched into a speech whose frankness astonished his hearers.

"American public opinion strongly resents some things which the Japanese armed forces are doing in China," he said. "In the interests of future relations, those facts must be faced. Only through consideration of facts and constructive steps to alter those facts can relations be improved."

Japanese would be wrong, Grew said, if they thought they could convince Americans that present Japanese practices in China should be condoned.

Hitler's Decree Puts German Rule Over Polish Area

BERLIN — (U.P.) — Adolf Hitler issued a decree today establishing the provinces of West Prussia and Posen — in conquered Poland — within the framework of the reich.

West Prussia, the name of the old pre-World war German province, is comparable to the Polish province of Pomorze, which was the famous corridor cutting East Prussia off from the reich and giving Poland access to the Baltic sea.

Danzig, Gdynia, Thorn, Bromberg and Graudenz are among the chief cities.

DIES IN WILLARD

KILLED BY BLAST

Columbus Man Hurt Fatally When Match Ignites Gas.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Lighting his pipe in a gas-filled market district hotel room, Joseph R. Jones, 54, set off an explosion which caused his death today.

Up and Down THE STREET

When E. H. Lamiell found a raccoon sleeping on the porch of his home near Greenwich the other morning, he resisted the temptation to get his gun and called for help to catch the animal. Captured by two neighbors after a scramble, the raccoon was found to have a tag on its ear, showing it had been liberated at the Milan raccoon reservation. The animal was turned over to Game Warden Joe Walker who took it back home.

Those who have done any bowling at all should know how hard it is to knock down the pins, and consequently, should be interested in Arthur L. Hilborn's "phantom" ball. Just as the Mansfield laundryman was getting ready to throw it down the bowling alleys the other night, the pins suddenly started to fall in all directions for a "strike" without anything apparently hitting the formation. The mystery of the "Falling Pins" has not been solved, and the pin boy avers he was not involved.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley believes 13 to be a "lucky number" as far as the Democratic party is concerned. Speaking at a meeting of party workers last night, Kelley said campaigners shouldn't be worried about superstitions because the Democratic ticket at the November election included 13 candidates for municipal offices. He opined that was a very good sign.

Maybe it's the natural reaction to the "Amazon movement" among women, but anyway when 40 boys from the WPA wood working class got together last night at the Y. M. C. A. for a fraternizing party, they didn't talk about who could lick whom or any of the things that you'd expect boys between the ages of 8 and 16 to talk about. Instead they made fudge — chocolate fudge—and later compared recipes and results. It was a lot of fun, they said, and not nearly so apt to get them into trouble as annoying citizens with Halloween "jokes."

VAN VOORHIS TO GO TO PANAMA

Commander of Ohio's Fifth Corps Area Transferred to Canal Command.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—The war department has announced the transfer of Maj. Gen. Daniel Van Voorhis from the command of the Fifth corps area to that of the Panama Canal zone, replacing Maj. Gen. David L. Stone who will succeed him at Fort Hayes.

Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring made the announcement of the change which will be effective about Jan. 1.

Gen. Van Voorhis' appointment has been made at a time when the Canal zone post is of great importance in army plans. Just recently President Roosevelt placed the entire administration of the zone under the army commander.

The new commander at Fort Hayes is a native of Mississippi, from which he was appointed to the West Point military academy. He graduated in 1898. Gen. Stone served in Cuba, the Philippines and France, and was in charge of military construction in the Hawaiian islands.

Gen. Van Voorhis was born in Zanesville and served in the Spanish-American war, the Philippines, the Mexican border, France, and Hawaii.

Gen. Van Voorhis later was in command of the army's mechanized cavalry at Fort Knox for four years. He came to Columbus as commander of the corps area, comprising Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Indiana.

PLAN FOR $4,000 SEWAGE PLANT ADDITION READY FOR COUNCIL

A proposal for a $4,000 improvement in sludge drying equipment at the municipal sewage treatment plant will be presented to council at its Nov. 7 meeting, Plant Superintendent James R. Turner said today.

In the meantime Turner said he would submit the plans to the state health department at Columbus for approval.

Plans call for an addition to the sludge drying beds which would provide for a 40 per cent increase in drying capacity, Turner said, and would relieve a situation at the plant whereby thousands of gallons of sludge are stored due to the lack of drying equipment.

The proposed addition already has the tentative approval of council's sewer committee and it is expected that the committee will recommend the improvement.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said several weeks ago that funds for the improvement were available from a special PWA fund, the balance of a fund used to finance the construction of the plant three years ago.

With materials estimated to cost approximately $4,000, it has been recommended that the job which requires only a small amount of tiling and carpenter work be done by street department workmen.

BARN BURNS

100 in Bucket Brigade Fail to Halt Spread of Fire.

ASHLAND—Fire from an undetermined cause early this morning destroyed a big barn, its contents and several outbuildings on the C. E. McClure farm in Vermillion township, south of here. The farm is occupied by Henry Stelzer, who has it leased.

The Ashland Community fire truck answered the call and although the alarm was given about 6:30 a. m. approximately 100 neighbors gathered at the farm and attempted to combat the blaze with an old fashioned bucket brigade. Despite their efforts, however, the buildings burned to the ground.

Besides the barn, a garage, a chicken coop and a corn crib were destroyed. All of the livestock was removed, except 50 chickens which burned to death in the coop before they could be released.

The barn contained 160 bushels of wheat, 25 tons of hay and eight pieces of farm machinery. McClure estimated the loss at $4,000, partially covered by insurance.

PLEADS GUILTY TO 2 CHARGES IN ASHLAND COURT

Reinhardt Indicted, Arraigned and Sentenced Within Hour; 3 Other Counts Nolled.

ASHLAND—Ray S. Reinhardt, 36, was indicted by the county grand jury on five counts, appeared in common pleas court for arraignment and was sentenced all within an hour this morning.

Reinhardt, former clerk of the Ashland county common pleas court and until his arrest several weeks ago, manager of the Ashland branch of the Mansfield Provident company, pleaded guilty to two of the counts against him, one for embezzlement of $8,178.69 over a period of three years, and that of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

On the first count, Judge H. E. Culbertson sentenced him to one to ten years in the Ohio penitentiary, and on the second charge, to one to five years. The sentences will run concurrently.

Forgery Counts Nolled.

The other three charges of forgery involving notes of $275, $300 and $630, were nolled by the court. Judge Culbertson said the fact Reinhardt had attempted to replace the money, influenced the court in its decision.

Atty. F. D. Shell, who represented Reinhardt, said that while his client was pleading guilty to the embezzlement charge, he denied the stated amount. He said that the sum was considerably less than $8,178 set up in the charge.

Shell said that on each of the notes which had been issued by Reinhardt under false names, his client had kept up the three per cent a month interest and paid back a part of the principal to the loan company.

The charge of operating a car without the owner's consent grew out of Reinhardt's taking out a certificate of ownership under a fictitious name.

Judge Culbertson asked the grand jury when it convened last week to make an investigation of what he charged was "widespread perjury in the county" and cited as an example the fact that Reinhardt could not have obtained the false certificate without collusion on the part of a notary public.

The grand jury brought in its indictments against Reinhardt this morning and he was taken immediately into common pleas court where he waived examination. He will be permitted to see his wife and two small sons before being taken to the penitentiary tomorrow.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Pegler Takes a Look at Bigelow Pension Scheme Up Before Ohio's Voters

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

CLEVELAND—The people of Ohio will vote on two proposed amendments to the constitution in the election of Nov. 7. The first would provide pensions of $50 a month to each single person over 60 and of $80 a month to each married couple living together. The second would reduce to 100,000 the number of signatures required for a petition to place proposed constitutional amendments on the ballot and to 50,000 the number of signatures required to submit a proposed law to the voters.

At present about 250,000 signatures are necessary to place either an amendment or a law on the ballot, and there are provisions which make it impossible for one city or one region to supply the adequate number of signatures.

This proposed No. 2 amendment would enable advocates of confiscation to obtain sufficient petitioners for any such proposal in poor neighborhoods and if both amendments pass doubtless will be invoked to permit the have-nots to vote for confiscation of property to provide revenue for the pensions. It would tend to dodge the legislature and submit to a direct vote of the people all proposed laws or repealers.

* * *

The sponsor of these proposals is Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow of Cincinnati, a man now in his 70's, who was in some degree responsible for the municipal reform there and served one term in congress as an independent New Dealer.

His private life has been fraught with tragedy, and as a churchman in Cincinnati he long ago parted company with his denomination and carried on as an independent, preaching charity and human kindness to a non-sectarian congregation a little more intellectual than the average.

He was a follower of Tom Johnson and preached at his funeral and in the World war was abducted into Kentucky and tarred and feathered, possibly for his pacifism but, in his own belief, for harassing the public utilities. His personal following may not be large, but his pension proposal received almost 250,000 signatures even under the existing restrictions which require that the sentiment shall represent area rather than local concentration.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, the author of the revolving pensions scheme to provide $50 a week to each senior citizen by a national transaction tax, has denounced the Bigelow plan as economically unworkable under the capitalistic system.

He has said that it will doom business and therein, for once, finds himself in agreement with the business men and the middle class of Ohio.

Nevertheless, the Townsend following is devoted to the Bigelow plan as something that will do for a substitute until the Townsend plan becomes a beautiful reality.

Bigelow once was a Townsend man himself, but couldn't wait.

* * *

Naturally, there is great alarm in the business community, and the campaign of the opposition probably will bring out an uncommonly large vote, because the scheme calls for a state income tax as well as a boost of 66⅔ per cent in the taxes on all land worth $20,000 an acre or more.

This might raise the taxes on homes in the city and suburban neighborhoods. Nobody knows exactly whether the amendment means just land or land and the improvements, and the home-owning citizen doesn't trust his luck. His 50-foot front with his mortgaged home, considered with its surroundings, might be subject to this raise because the amendment lays the tax on land whose value exceeds "the rate of" $20,000 an acre.

The pension amendment is a sloppy piece of writing. It would pension all Ohio citizens over 60 who are retired from gainful occupations "as wage earners," and that is being interpreted as an exclusion, probably unintentional but nevertheless effective, of farmers, housewives and some others.

* * *

And the shocking possibility has been discovered that elderly couples entitled to only $80 might feel compelled to live apart to qualify for the rate of $50 each, a net gain of $20 a month, for the assistance of their indigent or tired offspring. Mother and father love of the young ones being what it is, that possibility of brave, tragic sacrifice must be weighed.

There is one screaming clause in the pension amendment, however, which outshrills all the rest of it in the present campaign, as dear to the heart of the eligibles as it is poisonous to the opposition; that one requires that these pensions, amounting, at a rough estimate, to $300,000,000 a year, about twice the present state budget, would become the first obligation of the state.

This would leave no money for any other function of the government and, in fact, would require new, high taxes, as yet not even invented, to augment the present and proposed taxes to the level of the pension fund itself.

The old people would get it all, and still new revenues would be needed even beyond Bigelow's income and land taxes, to reward for the achievement of living 60 years.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—To me the most interesting single room in Hollywood is upstairs front in a pretty, substantial Beverly Hills house. Jean Hersholt built the house 16 years ago, and he still lives there.

That intriguing single room is Jean's library. In future, whenever I hear cracks about "a star and his book," I'm going to speak up about Jean.

It's not a vast room, probably no bigger than 14 by 18 feet. In it is Jean's big desk, by the front window. There are solid, pale rose-upholstered chairs and couches, and here and there a plaque or a scroll or an autographed picture testifying to some of the owner's film achievements or friendships; and a big globe (outdated as all of them are today, but still interesting). Personal memetoes of all sorts are there, and family photographs, including the new daughter-in-law, Osa Massen (a hit of "Honeymoon In Bali").

But all around — and everywhere — are books. Interesting books, rare books, priceless books. There isn't another collection of first editions like Jean Hersholt's in Hollywood.

* * *

Shelves line all four walls. There is nothing forbidding about the looks of them, either, which makes them different from the bookcases of many an avid collector. Jean Hersholt does not keep his treasures under glass, or sealed. Instead of "burying" them under sealed wrappings, he has individual cases, resembling volumes, made to order. A large "volume" marked "Master Humphrey's Clock" by Charles Dickens opens to reveal a stack of yellowed pamphlets, in proper order, which constituted the first edition of the Dickens book now known as "Barnaby Rudge." Hersholt has first of everything that Dickens wrote—and shelves of firsts by Hans Christian Andersen.

* * *

There is no volume in that room that is not a first—and his collecting taste is catholic. There are volumes of Walt Whitman, Mark Twain, of Boswell's Life of Johnson, of Herman Melville (of "Moby Dick" under its original English title, "The Whale") of Stephen Crane—and such minor items as "Helen's Babies," worth a mere $25 today but sentimentally valuable. Jean's friend Hugh Walpole fills two and a half shelves, and Jean has the only Walpole manuscript, "The Duchess of Wrexe," at large.

There is John Steinbeck, represented by everything he ever wrote—because Jean started collecting him before the Steinbeck vogue and was able to obtain brochures, pamphlets, and lesser items. There is a rare hand-illuminated medieval prayer book, and a folio of Shakespeare, and a single page from a Gutenberg Bible—a beautiful page on which the printing is clearer than many modern works can boast.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

"THE FIRST thing," Lillian said when we were safely in my father's hideaway apartment again, "is to shed these disguises, especially Madge. We can wait for ours, Harry, but if she's going over to the hotel tonight, she'll have to get all that make-up off."

"You're the doctor for that," her husband told her lazily. "Just enough cold cream and cleansing tissues, and you'll have the job done in no time. But you may spend some time in getting her hair back to normal."

"Will it take you long to copy those memories of that conversation?" Lillian asked.

"No," I answered. "But do you want me to wait here until it's de-coded?"

"Of course not, goose," she told me affectionately. "We may not be able to understand it at all, although I think it's rather primitive. And you must get to the Lansfield to meet Dicky. That's your most important assignment. If you'll just type it, using two extra carbons, you can take the first draft with you, and Harry and I'll wrestle with the carbons. As soon as you think you've solved it, telephone us, saying simply, 'I found that recipe,' and we'll do the same by you. Then, if it's important enough, we'll come over to the Lansfield and talk it over."

"Why don't you come over there tonight, anyway?" I asked.

"We don't want to see the Dicky-bird tonight unless we have to," she said. "There's no use his getting the idea that we're butting in on him."

"Harry and I will just go into the silence," Lillian said, drawing her husband into the other room. "Call us when you're finished."

She closed the door after her and I was definitely grateful, because I do not like to have anyone in the room with me when I am recreating something from my memory.

I knew better than to hurry the processes of my mind, though I could have typed much faster if I had been copying or taking simple dictation. But after a half-hour's steady application, I drew a deep breath of accomplishment. I was sure that every word of the jargon the conspirators had uttered was written upon the sheets of paper before me.

I crossed the room and knocked at the door which was thrown open instantly.

"Finished?" Lillian asked laconically.

"Yes." I held out the carboned sheets for which she had asked. "Here are yours. I have mine in my purse. Do you think I could go now?"

"Surest thing you know," she replied. "Harry, will you—"

"Get your bonnet on, Lady Fair," her husband said, striding to the outer door. "I'll have everything ready for you in a jiffy."

He was back in a few seconds with Gus and one of my father's guards.

"Gus will take you out the garden way, and back into another apartment, so you won't be seen coming out of here in your proper person," he said. "Thompson here will see that you get safely over to the hotel, and he'll be around there in the lobby the rest of the night. If you need him for anything, you'll just have to phone down."

"I'm sure I won't need him," I said, smiling faintly, "but I shall be glad to know he is there, nevertheless."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

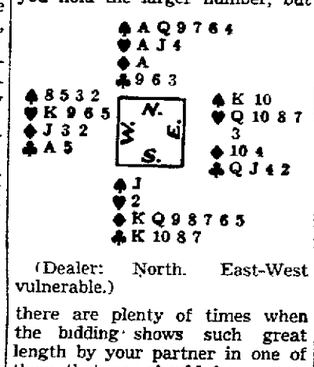
CONSIDER THE SIDE

When you are deciding which of your partner's suits is preferable, you should consider chiefly the number of cards in each suit held by the entire partnership and not merely the number of cards you hold in each of the suits.

Ordinarily the side will have more cards in the suit in which you hold the larger number, but there are plenty of times when the bidding shows such great length by your partner in one of them that you should favor it as against another suit in which you hold perhaps two more cards.

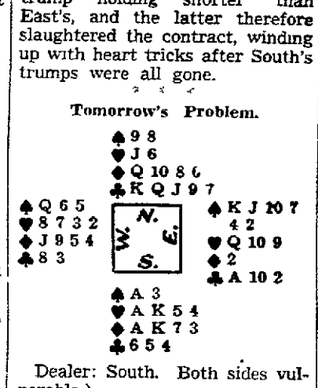
North made a very fatal bidding error on this deal in a rubber game. He had opened with 1-Spade, whereupon South bid 2-Diamonds, North 3-Spades, South 4-Diamonds, North 4-Spades and then South bid 5-Clubs. That club bid, after the diamonds had been bid twice showed that the diamond suit was at least two cards longer than the clubs and was therefore much preferred to clubs, although North held two more cards in it. Had North made his proper bid of 5-Diamonds it could not have been beaten.

As it turned out, North passed the 5-Clubs and West led a heart. When he later won with the club A, he led another heart, forcing South to ruff. This made his trump holding shorter than East's, and the latter therefore slaughtered the contract, winding up with heart tricks after South's trumps were all gone.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

Tomorrow's Problem.



Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South, at 3-No-Trumps, takes the second Spade and runs four diamonds, what should East discard?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, October 20.

Despite definite opposition from high sources and the possibility of much to be overcome, this may be a day of drastic action, with far-reaching significance. Peculiar situations may arise, and there may be tacit or subtle agreements with diplomatic, political or fraternal organizations, or rather radical social groups. Benefits may come from such curious alliance in spite of strife and stubborn obstacles

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of rather strenuous adventures, with matters of peculiar and unfathomable inspiration calling for much tact and finesse rather than quarrels. Those in high places must be placated, or groups compromised with. Personal popularity and prestige may achieve this, but shrewdness and strategem, weapons backed up by patience and perseverance, are powerful weapons.

A child born on this day may be particularly shrewd, deep, designing and ambitious, gaining its ends by practical plans, patience and persistence. It may have a faculty for social popularity and prestige.

—Advice—

College Or Marriage? —Which?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My mother is very anxious for me to have a college education, but as we are not very wealthy it would mean a great deal of sacrifice on her part. I'm the only child do want to please her, as she has been very good to me.

I'm almost 18 years old, in my last year in high school and very much in love with a young man of 20. We want to marry right after I graduate in February, and have a home of our own and children. I've lost all interest in school work since I've fallen in love with this young man, and everything else seems to bore me.

NAOMI.

I have a great deal of sympathy with young love, but I should like to have you right here with me some morning when I open my mail. If you could only see the pitiful letters I get from girls who have married so young that they feel they've had no youth. I'm sure you would change your mind about a college education.

Have you thought of the fact that unless this boy of 20 has inherited wealth, his chance of marrying for many years is very slim? Has he any prospects of a good position? I think the most practical thing for you, after graduation, is to equip yourself to be self supporting. And then, if you're still determined to marry, you will be able to help with the expense end of it.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never be without it in your home, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

LEGACY OF LOVE + + + + + +

By KATHRN BEMIS

(Copyright, 1939)

CHAPTER III.

For the first time since Rita had known Wilmot, she began to believe that he really loved Delores, perhaps had not married her for her social and financial position. But if he were fretting about money, it was unnecessary, as he should know. Once Delores made up her mind to be off with the old love and on with the new, Rita knew no monetary consideration would stand in her way. She would settle a fairly large sum on Wilmot if he made things too difficult.

The whole business made Rita sick with chagrin. She wished she were less sensitive, but she couldn't seem to get accustomed to airing the family skeletons every so often. If only Delores could get the same viewpoint! But Delores was just herself and nothing, Rita supposed, would ever change her. She and Delores were supplying the reporters with plenty of colorful copy these days. What wouldn't they do to the love lives of mother and daughter! It made her cheeks burn to think of it.

She could hear Wilmot bustling about his rooms at the end of the upper hall, hear him tersely ordering his man Dillon not to forget this and that. Wilmot was packing to go to effect a reconciliation with Delores. He was leaving on the next plane for New York, sailing on the first boat for Paris. Rita had found it next to impossible to talk to him about much else. He was acting like a wild man.

Rita felt about as depressed as she ever had, now that she was to be left alone with the servants. There had been times in the past when such unbounded freedom would have been a perfect lark; but now, for some unknown reason, she left apprehensive.

The taut pale Wilmot finally bade her a curt good-bye, then quickly left the house with Dillon. Rita sat by her sitting-room window, watching the big black limousine whirl out the drive, thinking over Wilmot's unusual behavior. If she could be sure that Wilmot was violently in love with her mother, his agitation would fit in nicely with his present actions.

But she could not believe this. She had an uneasy feeling that there was something else behind all this haste of his to get away, and it worried her.

Suddenly, the formality of this big old house surrounded by acres of avocado, lemon, orange and fig trees, by rose gardens, giant palms, peppers and sycamores, stifled her. She must get away!

* * *

She would go to Seebreeze, the Wilmot Greens' house at Malibou; she would let huge waves pound and roar against the tumult in her heart. Perhaps out there she could find a certain kind of peace. She had always loved the ocean and generally during the season the spacious beach home was open and filled with gay guests. But this year Wilmot had preferred to stay in town, and Rita had pretended to like it. Wilmot did not go in for bathing in cool water, for high wind and fresh salt air. Rita often wondered if he was afraid the clean ocean breeze would sweep aside some of his artificiality, expose his downright meanness underneath.

The servants were delighted to be going to the beach and within a few hours Rita began to share some of their enthusiasm. When her maid Lernie returned late that afternoon, Rita set her to packing slacks and shorts, bathing suits, beach robes, sweaters and cardigans. She was taking few formal clothes; she was determined to have a little or no company at the beach. She would put in the time reading, painting and communing with herself—perhaps enjoy being sorry for herself a few weeks.

She scarcely touched the porterhouse steak and mushrooms, the shoestring potatoes, calavo salad and chocolate cream pie brought by Dobbs to her upstairs sitting-room because she dreaded dining alone tonight in the sombre shadows of the family dining-room.

Dobbs noted her lack of appetite when removing the remains of the dinner she had scarcely touched. With the privilege won by fifteen years of service, he suggested, "I'll tell Minnie to plan a tempting breakfast for you, Miss Rita."

Minnie, his wife, was housekeeper in this establishment and managed the servants with rare skill and determination, even on occasion mothering Rita with comforting tact.

"Thank you, Dobbs," Rita said, smiling faintly. But her world was all wrong. An odd premonition of calamity persisted; she could not shake it off.

But Dobbs had barely left the room when he returned to announce, "Your car is waiting, Miss Rita."

"My—car? I didn't order it brought around!"

"Beg pardon, Miss—but Stanton, the new chauffeur, said to tell you he was out front."

"That's odd. I can't imagine—oh well, I'll see this Stan-Stan. . ."

"Stanton, Miss Rita."

She straightened her rose satin coat over her rose satin slacks, and went quickly downstairs. Only when she reached the front door was she conscious of the ridiculous gold satin mules on her feet.

* * *

Shivering in the cool night air, she ran down the porch steps to face the tall young uniformed chauffeur standing beside the open door of her tan coupe.

His cap immediately came off. She halted panting before him, said severely, "You're mistaken—I'm not using the car tonight. You can take it back to the garage—and hereafter . . ."

"Yes, Miss Rhodes," his lips said, but his level gray eyes twinkled.

That voice! She must hear it again, make certain.

"Do you usually get your orders so confused?" she asked, her ears poised for his reply.

"I promised to take you out tonight, Miss Rhodes. I always like to keep my word."

"You—the clown!" she exclaimed, in exasperation. "So—you're the new chauffeur! I never heard of a more—more . . ."

Words failed her. Her heart was pounding furiously, exultantly. She was fascinated by that wavy lock of light sandy hair tumbling over his high forehead, by his clean-cut lean face, fully revealed by the porch light.

* * *

"I was the clown, Miss Rhodes. Now, I'm offering you my protection—you need some one to look after you." Again he was Stanton, the chauffeur, altogether deferential and gravely in earnest.

Rita stared up at him in amazement. The set of broad shoulders above his slim-waisted coat, even the way he held himself, was arresting. But she couldn't let him take too much for granted.

"I've done very well looking after myself," she told him, her big blue eyes trying to stare him down. "I can continue to do so—I hope—somehow."

"Somehow is right! Please let me take you for a short drive. I'd like to talk to you."

He reached in the car, produced a heavy tweed coat.

"Why—my coat! I—I hadn't missed it."

He held it out and, unhesitatingly, she shoved her arms into the long warm sleeves, and folded the coat tightly around her shivering little body.

Then she found herself getting into the car, surprised at her ready acquiescence to this man's desire. But something impelled her to see this through to the finish. If it were curiosity, it surmounted her recent resentment, but she was too baffled now to define it exactly.

He closed the door, ran around to the other side of the car, and got in behind the wheel.

Without another word he swung the car quickly to the street, and let it out to the limit of lawful speed. They skimmed through the broad residential section, a little more sedately through brilliantly lighted business thoroughfares, then through town after town so quickly and evenly that it was difficult to tell where one town began and another left off.

Rita realized after a time that they were coming into Los Angeles, and asked the silent man beside her, a little anxiously, "Where are you going? You suggested a short drive— and we've driven miles."

"Just so you could get your bearings, Miss Rhodes—realize I'm on t he level. I'd like you to trust me."

She smiled to herself in the darkness. What a discerning man he was! She had been inclined to be afraid of him at first, but now for some reason or other, she was filled with a certain degree of confidence in him. He had a way with him, she confessed to herself reluctantly. He had succeeded in getting her into his car, driven her far from home. She had taken this—from a chauffeur. Why? What had come over her? She'd been acting like a silly little schoolgirl.

"Now that you've had your little joke, Stanton, you may turn around and take me home," she said, stiffly severe.

But he was turning into Griffith Park, paying no attention to her order. The car was running smoothly and silently beneath a canopy of hig old evergreens.

Rita bounced upright. "Stanton! Did you hear me? I wish to be taken home!"

* * *

She was trembling now, assuring herself there was nothing to be alarmed about; but there were too many dark shadows in here and no pedestrians whatever. There were cars ahead and behind them, but for all she knew they were filled with this man's accomplices.

"Yes, Miss Rhodes, I heard you. When I find a good place. I'll turn around."

He sent the car swiftly ahead, and Rita cowered in her corner of the seat. He paid no attention to several broad curves in the road where he could have easily swung about and headed in the opposite direction.

Soon, they were climbing a steep highway leading to the planetarium on the crest of the mountain, circling the sharp hairpin curves in wild abandon. Rita was nearly hypnotized by this man's brazen insolence. She wondered what he would do or say next. This uncertainty, mingled with her concern, was making this a highly exciting novel trip.

What a laugh if he thought he was taking her to some darkly secluded spot! There were always crowds going into the planetarium this time of evening. It was fantastic to say the least. The socially prominent Miss Rita Rhodes, heiress extraordinary, being ordered around by her own chauffeur!

So she kept silent, sat secretly admiring Stanton's sure command of the wheel, knowing enough about the danger of this mountain road to realize how easily the car could slip over its rocky edge if she distracted the driver's attention. She watched the string of headlights ascending below them now on the winding road, zigzagging like linked lanterns that blazed one instant and were extinguished the next as cars swerved abruptly around the bends.

Finally up ahead loomed the big planetary building, its brilliantly illuminated dome sparkling like a diamond-studded crown. They now were catching up to a long line of motor cars, which were drawing to parking formation on a large paved space.

Stanton slid the car in between two white-painted lines and shut off the ignition. He dropped the key in his brest pocket, remarking, "You can get an exceptional view of the city from that walk over there."

She knew she should reprimand him, but oddly enough now, she could only manage a reproachful look. By the light of a nearby street lamp, she could see his nice gray eyes resting on her with an expression not new to her, but embarrassingly unbecoming in a chauffeur.

"Do you know—I've never seen natural blond hair so light before. It is natural, isn't it?"

* * *

She couldn't prevent her laugh.

"Yes, of course. But I've never known a chauffeur quite so—so inquisitive."

He did not take his eyes from her. He seemed to have no shame, this unpredictable man.

He only said, "The way those curls nestle around your ears, your stubby little nose, your dreamy eyes—it's all good. I suppose your mouth is pretty, too—but I wouldn't know. Lip rouge makes guessers of men."

"I've never heard of such — such impertinence! You're impossible! I'm not in the habit of . . ."

"I know. You're putting me in my place. That's perfectly proper. I'm sorry—I apologize—but I couldn't help myself, Miss Rhodes. You're so—lovely."

"You might have mentioned all this without bringing me way up here. Now that you've said all you had to say...."

"Oh, but I haven't! I've only just begun!"

"Really!"

"Yes, Miss Rhodes. I'm going to be your friend, whether you like it or not. In fact, you're going to know me quite well."

"I could discharge you — for this high-handed...."

"Yes, you could, but will you?" he sounded troubled. He added quickly, "You wouldn't discharge a worthy man who needs his job, would you? Besides—I'm a good driver."

Put this way, his plea seemed honest enough, yet she could not shake off the impression that he was an impostor. His speech, his poise, by no stretch of her imagination resembled that of any chauffeur she had ever encountered.

* * *

What was back of all this? She thought of the horrible things that sometimes threatened people in the upper financial bracket, and shivered.

"Yes, you drive well enough—but that's not everything," Rita said sternly. "A good chauffeur doesn't talk back—he's willing to take orders. He would never, never take the—the liberties you have tonight, Stanton."

"I'm—sorry if I've offended, Miss Rhodes," he said contrifely, then immediately ruined the effect of this by getting out of the car and opening the door on Rita's side.

Speechless she stared up at him. Still, it was impossible to be angry with him. Uncertainty and amusement gripped her now.

Curiosity impelled her to get out and take a few steps with him to the guard-rail overlooking the dark deep ravine at the base of the mountain.

"Great sight, isn't it?" he said, looking out across the distant miles of twinkling green, yellow, red, blue and white lights overhanging Los Angeles, Hollywood and their environs. "I always get a kick out of this."

They were standing alone, entirely apart from people who were going in and out of the planetorium, apart from other couples leaning on the rail nearer the building. Anything could happen. But for some strange reason, she was not afraid.

"Yes, it's — beautiful," came from her, a little breathlessly.

His hand over hers was a barely perceptible gesture. She allowed herself to like its firm warm strength a full minute before withdrawing her own hand, shoving it deep in her coat pocket. She said hurriedly, "All those stars around a full moon—the colorful neon signs below—make it look like Christmas. I love it."

STITCH IN TIME

Oklahoma Bus, Street Car Men Give Safety Speeches.

OKLAHOMA CITY —(AP)— As part of a traffic safety campaign, street car and bus operators make this speech to their passengers:

"Ladies and gentlemen, let me have your attention please. There have been 10 deaths this year. And seven of them were pedestrians. When you leave this car be careful in crossing the street. Help us keep Oklahoma City safe. Thank you."

LOSES CUNNING

NYACK, N. Y.—(AP)—The fox's reputation for cunning has suffered a setback. Orangetown Supervisor Robert H. Clark reported a red fox leaped into his arms while he was inspecting culverts.

A Boy at Last In Cantor Family

OH-H-H BO--OY! At long last there's a boy in the Cantor family! But Grandpa Eddie, in Boston, won't believe it. He still thinks it's one of those jokes which his friends are always playing on him, and even two long distance calls from Boston to the Cedars of Lebanon hospital in Hollywood hasn't convinced him. A husky boy weighing almost nine pounds, was born to his daughter Mrs. Natalie Metzger, 22, after a Caesarian operation. Cantor, the father of five girls, has made no secret of his sorrow that there never was a son in the family. His public yearnings launched one of Hollywood's most famous legends. Mother and son were reported "doing splendidly"—much better in fact than the incoherent grandfather.

THEATERS

DOROTHY LAMOUR is elated because she has her first opportunity to "act" in "Disputed Passage." She plays an American girl who is orphaned and raised in a Chinese home. Brian Donlevy, who is pretty dastardly in films, finds this no handicap to work. He is as busy—or busier—than any of the Romantic Lads. He's just finished "Beau Geste" and "Allegheny Frontier," and now is working in "Destry Rides Again" . . . Martha Raye is playing the title role in "The Farmer's Daughter" . . . Madeliene Carroll is one of the busiest actresses in Hollywood. She is rehearsing for two new fall radio programs, which give her two air shows a week, and is booked to play the lead in "Safari," in which Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Tullio Carminati are cast . . .

* * *

One Day's Showing.

"Pride of The Blue Grass," which is the offering at the Madison for Friday only, is, as the name suggests, a story of a race horse. The blind horse, Gantry The Great, plays the leading role, supported by Edith Fellows and James McCallion. Born in old Kentucky, the horse races to fame in the sport of Kings, but loses out when a blow blinds him. How he comes back makes a human interest climax.

* * *

Canadian Invader.

Jacqueline Nash, nine-year-old Canadian girl, is another contender for the sort of fame that belongs to Deanna Durbin. The young singer makes her screen debut in "They Shall Have Music," the Ohio theater offering through tomorrow. She is from Toronto and has sung on many programs for the Canadian Broadcasting company. Her voice has range and power for a youngster. Jascha Heifetz, distinguished violinist, also makes his first screen appearance in the film.

* * *

Valuable Radio Disappears.

A Bulldog Drummond film heads the Ritz bill for the last two days of the week, being supplemented by Roy Rogers in "Frontier Pony Express." John Howard plays Bulldog Drummond and Heather Angel his bride in "Bulldog Drummond's Bride." The super sleuth sets out to locate a stolen radio which hides $50,000 in stolen money. The cast includes Reginald Denny, Elizabeth Patterson, H. B. Warner, and the sinister Eduardo Ciannelli.

* * *

Action on Waterfront.

Lusty and filled with action is "Waterfront" which the Majestic presents tomorrow and Saturday, with a new hero, Dennis Morgan. Gloria Dickson and Marie Wilson appear with him. The action revolves around a waterfront leader and a bully who fight for supremacy in the waterfront club. An "incurable" and violent temper is cured when Morgan barely misses killing his wife. "Range War," a Hopalong Cassidy adventure, with William Boyd, is the second film.

* * *

Wrong-Way Hero.

The thrilling and heroic story of a small town pilot who set out for California by the way of Dublin is told in "The Flying Irishman," a Park theater feature. Douglas Corrigan is the real hero of this saga of hard knocks and accomplishments under difficulties. Paul Kelly is seen as the flying pal whose death in a crash gave Corrigan his prized pilot's jacket; Robert Armstrong as the man who taught Corrigan to fly, and Dorothy Peterson as his mother. "Algiers" with Charles Boyer and Hedy Lamarr is also shown.

KITCHEN EXPERT

84-Year-Old Grain Dealer Specializes in Bread.

HAWKEYE, Ia.—(UP)—James Zoller, 84-year-old retired grain dealer, believes that when he dons his apron and is barricaded in his kitchen with pots and pans he is a match for the average housewife in culinary skill.

Zoller learned the intricacies of the cuisine when he retired 18 years ago to care for his invalid wife, who died several years ago.

He derives particular pleasure from canning enough food each summer and fall to carry him through the winter and spring.

The former grain dealer also bakes, specializing in bread and cakes.

NOT RESPECTED

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(U.P.)— Deputy Sheriff Vernon La More is bemoaning the lack of dignity and authority which always conferred on a peace officer by the wearing of a sheriff's badge. He was talking with the inmates of the sheriff's office when a released prisoner walked out. The latter picked up the deputy sheriff's badge, which happened to be lying on the table, and still has it.

HOSPITAL BILLS OF NEEDY $4,000 ABOVE BUDGET

Figures Show Indigent Care Cost City $9,784 for First Nine Months of Year.

Figures released today by Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, revealed that the city's hospitalization bill for indigents for the first nine months of 1939 was nearly $4,000 above the budget.

Unless a sharp decrease is shown in hospitalization of needy persons in the next three months, the total bill for the year will be more than double the amount set up for this purpose, it was pointed out.

Despite efforts of city officials to have stays of indigents in the hospital reduced to a minimum, the bill for the first nine months totals $9,784, or approximately $1,000 less than was spent during the corresponding period in 1938.

This amount is nearly double that budgeted for hospitalization purposes early this year to offset an indebtedness which was carried over from last year.

Cost $15,000 Last Year.

Last year's bill was nearly $15,000 in addition to $5,000 paid hospital staff physicians for medical and surgical care of indigents.

The hospital bill last month totaled $1,468 or more than $500 above the amount spent during the corresponding period a year ago.

City records show that the number of X-rays for indigents increased from 27 during the first nine months of 1938 to 63 for the same period this year. This is 18 more than during the entire 12 months last year.

Listed below are comparative figures for hospitalization of indigents for the nine-month periods of 1938 and 1939.

	1938	1939
January	$ 806	$ 998
February	1,109	727
March	1,207	877
April	1,338	1,432
May	1 509	1,307
June	1,051	876
July	1,304	823
August	1,474	1,295
September	998	1,468

LABOR NOT LOST

SPARTANBURG, S. C.—(U.P.)—Love's labor was not lost when Miss Evelyn Huntsinger and Lloyd Rogers decided to get married. The license office was closed and the clerk of the judge of probate court was at a baseball game. The elopers found the clerk, who sent for the marriage license, then performed the ceremony in the grandstand between innings.
